Smoke alarms are crucial: fire captain

Alarms weren't functioning in two recent house fires

By STEVE LeBLANC

The Champion

Mark Cross can't stress strongly enough how important it is for everyone to have a working smoke alarm in their home.

But the Milton Fire Department's spokesman is trying to all the same — in the wake of two residential fires within the past week.

In both cases, there were no functioning alarms.

And while fortunately there were no fatalities or injuries caused by either blaze, Captain Cross is reminding local residents that the potential for tragedy is always there — and it's greatly heightened when proper safety measures aren't taken.

"I'd say 75 per cent of the homes we visit on a regular basis don't have properly located or functioning smoke alarms," he said.

"In fact there's more CO2 detectors than smoke alarms, even though the odds of being hurt or killed in a fire are much greater than of getting carbon monoxide poisoning."

Minimal damage was caused during the first fire on Bronte Street Sunday evening.

An overloaded electrical circuit appears to be the cause of the fire, which took less than a half-hour to knock down.

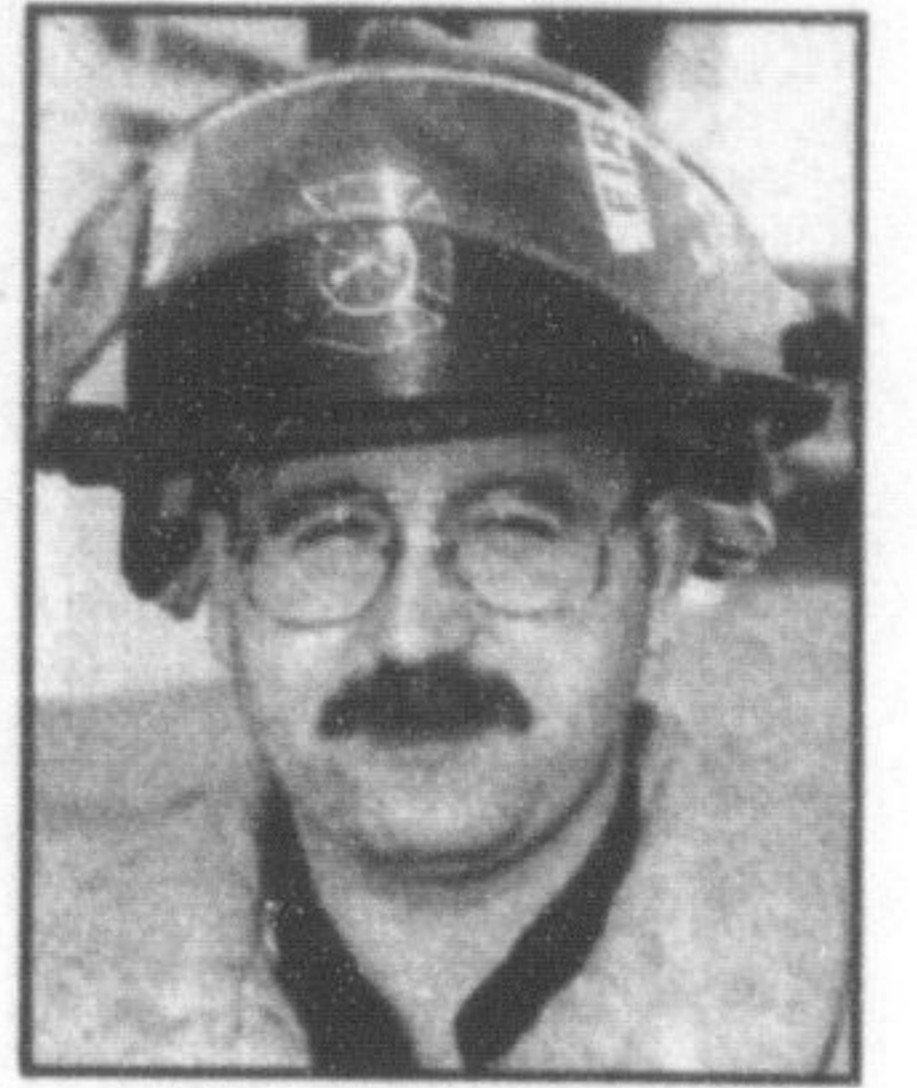

The following morning on Guelph Line, Milton and Halton Hills firefighters needed several hours to battle back a fire that caused approximately $80,000 damage to a century-old farm house.

Originating in a first-floor fireplace, the blaze gutted the kitchen, basement and an upstairs bedroom.

The occupants, who're renting the property, had just moved in a few days earlier and had no insurance.

Captain Cross said each home should be equipped with a smoke alarm in the sleeping area as well as on all other floors.

The penalty for non-compliance is $230 for private residents or $50,000 for businesses and corporations.
