Male faces several charges following midnight break-in

Police cruiser stolen, damaged by late-night intruder

An intruder got more than he bargained for during an early-morning break-in Friday.

Police report that at about 12:34 a.m. a female resident of Strathcoma Court discovered an unknown man entering her basement.

She immediately called 911 after waking up her husband — who managed to corner the suspect until Halton Regional Police arrived.

That's when things took a bizarre turn.

An officer handcuffed the suspect and stuck him in the back of his cruiser before exiting the vehicle to talk with another officer.

The suspect used the opportunity to quickly climb into the front seat — squeezing through the security screen — and speed off in the cruiser, southbound on Wilson Drive.

The cruiser was stopped a short distance away when the man lost control. About $4,700 worth of damage was caused to the cruiser.

A 21-year-old Woodward Avenue man was charged with theft over $5,000, dangerous driving, causing a police pursuit, escaping custody and break and enter.

He was to appear in Ontario Court (provincial division) yesterday.
