

Prime Minister Jean Chretien talks with Milton's Father Mark Curtis about his latest CD.

Curtis meets prime minister

Father Mark Curtis, dubbed Canada's Singing Priest, had the chance to entertain Prime Minister Jean Chretien Wednesday in Ottawa.

"It's my 25th anniversary of performing for charities," Father Curtis said. "I've been touring across the country and the United States since September and the tour ends on the east coast in July. I presented Jean Chretien my new CD,

The Bridge To Us All. He heard of my music through (Halton MP) Julian Reed. (Julian Reed) set up the meeting."

Father Curtis and the prime minister spoke of Milton and music for about 20 minutes, he said.

"He said, 'Oh, another one from Milton,'" Father Curtis said, referring to astronaut Chris Hadfield.

"The time I spent in his office was a real treat and honour. I sang

'My Canada', a song I wrote myself. He said I have a beautiful voice. He's appreciative of Canadian Christian artists."

A Bridge To Us All is Father Curtis' 12th recording and fourth CD. His fifth CD, The Call, will be released in September.

A portion of the proceeds from his concerts go to Rose Cherry's Home, a centre for terminally ill children in Milton.

Question: Why does Sun Haven use face tanners (high pressure units)?

Answer: Face tanners provide the gentlest way to tan our delicate facial skin. This is accomplished using less UVB which is the most intense tanning ray. This also provides a longer lasting tan: as our faces are more exposed to the elements such as wind and washing causing tans to fade more rapidly on our faces.

The technology is much more costly than basic beds with no face tanners and to keep operating costs low some franchise tanning. The vast majority of reputable tanning facilities will have sophisticated face tanners, providing their clients with a better and more complete tan.

I recently read an advertisement suggesting that face tanners are unsafe, this is absolutely untrue. This technology, pioneered by physicians, is used today to help people with certain skin disorders. Some indoor tanning facilities don't offer this costly technology, so they simple try to mislead people into thinking this gentle method of tanning is unsafe. If you feel unsure or feel misled about indoor tanning please contact us. John or Dawn Phillips at 905-878-2324.
