Luckily no one was hurt in a train-truck collision on the tracks in Campbellville Friday.

Tractor-trailer hit by train

A tractor-trailer unit was struck by a CN train Friday afternoon as it crossed the rail line on Guelph Line in Campbellville.

Luckily neither the truck driver nor the train operator were injured.

At about 3:30 p.m., the driver of the truck stopped at the crossing for a passing train and proceeded when the caution arms lifted.

A second train followed at a slow speed and struck the truck's trailer as it crossed the intersection.

"I looked to my right to see if it was clear and I saw another train. All of a sudden, they (the warning lights) came back on and I was already half-way through," truck driver Luis Arauso said.

"I kept on going — trying to speed up — and that's when it got me in the back."

The truck spun 90 degrees and came to a rest parallel with the track.

The trailer skin and a foot step on the train were damaged in the collision.

A spokesman from CN couldn't be reached at press time yesterday.
