Citizen-based, crime-fighting committee has new life in town

By FANNIE SUNSHINE
The Champion

Halton Regional Police in Milton are trying to re-spark the interest residents have for safety in their community with the creation of a new town Community Consultation Committee.

"We reformed the committee," said Det. Sgt. Jackie Gordon of Halton Regional Police.

"Interest was dwindling off so we're trying to get that back."

For the last year, the committee has been on the back burner because of the lack of issues concerning residents, she said.

"People are concerned about traffic issues and break and enters. We're trying to bring the people together."

Halton Regional Police will host the inaugural meeting of the committee tonight at 12 Division, 551 Child Dr., at 7 p.m.

The committee is designed to improve communication between the police and the public.

The meetings provide an opportunity to discuss the activities of the police in the community and review crime statistics in town.

"The residents would be telling us their concerns," Det. Sgt. Gordon said. "We will try to meet their concerns by directing them to who would be best to deal with the situation, be it the Town, police, the Region or merchants."

She said the committee will meet either once a month or quarterly.

"It requires participation from the community to make an effective committee. This provides a vehicle for the community to convey and come up with solutions. We're encouraging people with an interest in their community to come out and see what the committee is about."

Tutors are needed now

Literacy North Halton is looking for volunteer tutors in Milton to help adults with either reading, spelling, writing, math or basic computer skills.

Teaching experience isn't a necessity. A commitment of three hours per week is required.
