For The Fallen

With proud thanksgiving, a mother for her children,
England mourns for her dead across the sea.
Flesh of her flesh they were, spirit of spirit,
Fallen in the cause of the free.

Solemn the drums thrill: Death august and royal Sings sorrow up into immortal spheres.
There is music in the midst of desolation
And a glory that shines upon our tears.

They went with songs to the battle, they were young,
Straight of limb, true of eye, steady and aglow,
They were staunch to the end against odds uncounted;
They fell with their faces to the foe.

They shall grow not old, as we that are left grow old;
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun and in the morning
We will remember them.

But where our desires are and our hopes profound,
Felt as a well-spring that is hidden from sight,
To the innermost heart of their own land they are known
As the stars are known to the Night:
As the stars that shall be bright when we are dust,
Moving in marches upon the heavenly plain,
As the stars that are starry in the time of our darkness,
To the end, to the end, they remain.

The Veteran's Eyes by: Erin Skalski

Some people say,
Eyes are the windows to the soul,
When I look into the veteran's eyes,
There are images of dying soldiers,
And life's vital juices spilling on the ground.
His eyes are cold and icy blue,
Hard as flint with sparks of hate,
The pupil dark but not quite vacant,
Images hypnotic I can't help but stare.

When I look into his eyes,
I see young men in mortal combat,
They are the same age as my brother,
But war makes them look older.

The veteran's eyes fill wil tears,
I see him dragging his mutilated friend,
Out of no man's land and into the trench,
A few hours later his friend dies,

In a daze of self pity,
He pulls his own body out of the trench.

On Remembrance Day,
We are told to remember,
But the veteran can not forget,
The images permanently etched in his mind,
His soul forever tormented.

The veteran's mind recollects,
The A-bomb and D-day,
He was not there in body,
But he was with the soldiers in spirit.

The veteran looks into my eyes,
He sees innocents, and tenderness, my soul is at peace,

Eyes are the windows to the soul,
But I don't think we truly understand what we see.
