High winds cause power outages at many homes

Heavy winds and downed tree limbs caused several power outages across Milton Friday.

"It was mainly due to trees coming over the lines from the gusty winds," explained Milton Hydro vice-president of operations Richard Murray.

"It started at about noon and we had it cleaned up by about 4 p.m."

During that time, three incidents were recorded, each of which saw 30 residences or less left without power.

About 300 north Milton residences were also left without hydro for a short time Friday due to a supply problem with Hydro One, Mr. Murray added.
