

Lots of work still to be done out there: Henderson

By RICHARD VIVIAN
The Champion

Being involved in the community just seemed natural to Barny Henderson, this year's Milton Chamber of Commerce Lifetime Achievement Award recipient. "You live in a community and you make your living in a community — you feel you've got to participate and support the community," he told The Champion.

During his 30 years as a Miltonian, Mr. Henderson has demonstrated leadership through his involvement with the Kinsmen, the Milton branch of the Canadian Arthritis Society, the Milton Business Improvement Area (BIA), the Milton Tennis Club, Milton Arts Productions, the Allendale Foundation and numerous other groups — for most of which he served as president at one time or another.

"A lot of them you do because you like them. Tennis is something I love and enjoy — the same with Milton Arts Productions. We have to keep them going," he explained.

"I've got my office downtown, I live close to downtown, you just want to make sure downtown is as good as it could be," he said of this BIA participation.

The Lifetime Achievement Award — to be presented during an April 6 ceremony at Granite Ridge Golf Club — is the first time Mr. Henderson has been publicly recognized for his efforts. Such recognition is something he's always shied away from.

"Obviously you're honoured (by the award). You don't do it for any particular reward, but it's certainly nice to be recognized," he said. "It lets people know that they need to be involved — the community needs them. There's lots of work to be done out there. I don't think that'll ever end."
