An injection of more than $600,000 from the provincial government is helping to pay for at least 43 new cops and a new program to discourage youth crime.

"(Staffing) represents about 84 per cent of our budget so by the Province contributing to front-line staffing that, in turn, decreases our budget pressures," said Halton Regional Police Chief Ean Algar.

"And at the same time (it) allows us to gain additional staff to place them on the road to respond to front-line issues."

On Thursday, Burlington MPP Cam Jackson presented Chief Algar and Halton Regional Police Services Board Chair Don Robinson a cheque for $607,401 on behalf of the Ministry of the Solicitor General.

It's the third payment to Halton police since 1999 and brings the Province's total commitment to the service to more than $2.2 million over three years.

"It is a decent shot in the arm," Chief
