THE NFL KICKS OFF THIS WEEKEND

The St. Louis Rams ended last season with disappointment, losing in the Super Bowl against the underdog New England Patriots. RB Marshall Faulk, the most versatile back in the NFL was nowhere to be found in the second half and QB Kurt Warner, last season's co-MVP along with Faulk, did not have a strong game.

I am picking the Rams to be back in the big dance at the end of the season, seeking to atone for past failure - the motivation is there, the rookies are now veterans, the veterans are now more comfortable in the coach's system - an improved defense combined with their potent offensive firepower will make the Rams a difficult team to beat.

Who is your team? Let's kick off!

As the NFL focuses people's attention on football, I thought of how many of the technical terms surrounding that sport could be applied in a congregational experience.

A quarterback sneak is when church members attempt to leave quietly, leaving during the altar invitation.

A draw play is what many children do with their bulletin throughout the Worship Service.

Half-time refers to the interval of time between the Sunday School and the Worship Service.

A bench warmer is someone who does not contribute to the service in any way. Sadly, this individual does not sing, pray, work, or give and is quite content to simply sit and do nothing.

Having a backfield-in-motion is what happens when younger children in the congregation begin to make frequent restroom or water fountain trips to the back of the sanctuary during the service.

Staying in the pocket is what happens to a lot of money that should be given to the Lord's work.

The two-minute warning is the point at which members of the congregation realize that the sermon is almost over and begin to gather up their personal belongings.

An instant replay is used when the pastor loses his notes and has to fall back on last week's illustrations.

Sudden death occurs when the preacher goes into overtime and is often evidenced in the attention span of congregational members.

A trap is particularly effective when the individual called on to pray for the special requests failed to pay attention as they were listed.

An end run allows people to get out of church quickly, without having to speak to anyone.

A flex defense is incorporated far too often making it difficult for individuals to personally apply the sermon's Biblical truth.

A blitz best describes the pressing rush for the restaurants that follows the closing prayer.

Hope you enjoyed those parallels! I remember reading a creative church sign posted on a giant billboard which proclaimed:

Meet Me at My House before the Game!" ~ God

With all the frenzied activities of a new fall season, let's not forget to meet God at His House! Consider visiting a local church this week! Consult the Religious Directory below for service times and location.
