Why Buy Used??

Buying a car in today's environment can be confusing. Many of today's new car dealers are advertising rates as low as 0%. While interest rates are important, the real cost villain of owning and operating a vehicle is "DEPRECIATION." Make no mistake about it, new cars depreciate at a faster rate than used. So when making your purchase decision, let us show you how purchasing a 1, 2, or 3 year old vehicle can make sound economical sense, even when factoring in low or 0% interest rates.
