Inaugural Nativity Pageant packs them in at Country Heritage Park

Busloads of people attend festive event

Milton's Nativity Pageant was so successful this year that dates for next year's performance have already been set.

absolutely thrilled."

The Nativity Pageant, a cooperative project of the Milton Christian Churches Working Together, was the brainchild of Dr. Andrea Rowbottom.

About 90 volunteers acted throughout the pageant's 10 scenes, which depicted Mary and Joseph in the manger, the Three Wise Men, Roman soldiers and the birth of Jesus Christ, she continued.

"Mary and Joseph also greeted the people as they walked in. The Roman soldiers stamped passports that were handed out before they headed into Bethlehem."

The 30-minute guided tour was originally designed for 20 people to walk through at a time, but because of the large turnout, each group had to accommodate 30 to 35 people, Ms McDonell said.

"It was definitely an intergenerational, family event. We had 350 volunteers, not including the choirs.

"Everyone was so happy with the success. This shows that one person can make a difference."

eant November 28 to December 1 at Country Heritage Park," said Carolyn McDonell, public relations coordinator for the pageant.

The outdoor pageant, On the Way to Bethlehem, was held at Country Heritage Park December 6 to 9. Close to 4,000 people from across Ontario came out for the event over the four days, Ms McDonell said.

"It went extremely well," she said. "The amount of people that came out doubled our expectations. We saw bus loads of people come in from Huntsville, Harriston, Waterloo and Guelph. We were just
