Halton police Const. Mel Hannah stops cars at a RIDE spot check with Marlene Purdy of Mothers Against Drunk Driving.

RIDE program nets two drunk driving suspects in north Halton

Two people were charged with impaired driving among 8,543 drivers stopped in north Halton during the 2002 Holiday RIDE Program.

Seventeen people also received 12-hour driver's licence suspensions in Milton and Halton Hills, according to Halton Regional Police.

A total of 58 drivers were given roadside screening tests for impaired driving.

Halton police also laid 38 Highway Traffic Act charges.

Overall in Halton, 34,344 vehicles were stopped, 686 warnings or cautions were given out and more than 200 various charges were laid during the stepped-up program, which ran from November 29 to December 31.

"The total number of vehicles stopped this year has increased from last," said Sgt. Trevor Hay.

He said 32,402 vehicles were stopped in the 2001 program.

"We also increased the number of RIDE days by 25 per cent this year," he said.

"The combination of the two inevitably means more roadside testing and charges. The statistics from the number of cars stopped is encouraging."
