

New Halton waste management info now available on-line

Waste has gone on-line. Halton Region's waste management division has launched a new Web site to provide residents with the latest information about curbside waste collection, as well as valuable tips and reminders about reducing, reusing and recycling. The new waste management pages can be found on Halton's Web site at www.region.halton.on.ca. Click on the 'Waste Management' icon on the home page, or go to 'Services' and then 'Waste'. The new site features downloadable versions of the popular Halton waste management calendar, information about recycling, composting, reuse centres, special collection and more.

"This updated Web site is part of our ongoing efforts to provide residents with the information they need to participate in waste diversion," said Rob Rivers, the Region's director of waste management.
