Discovering Downtown Milton

The Art of Design & Home Decoration

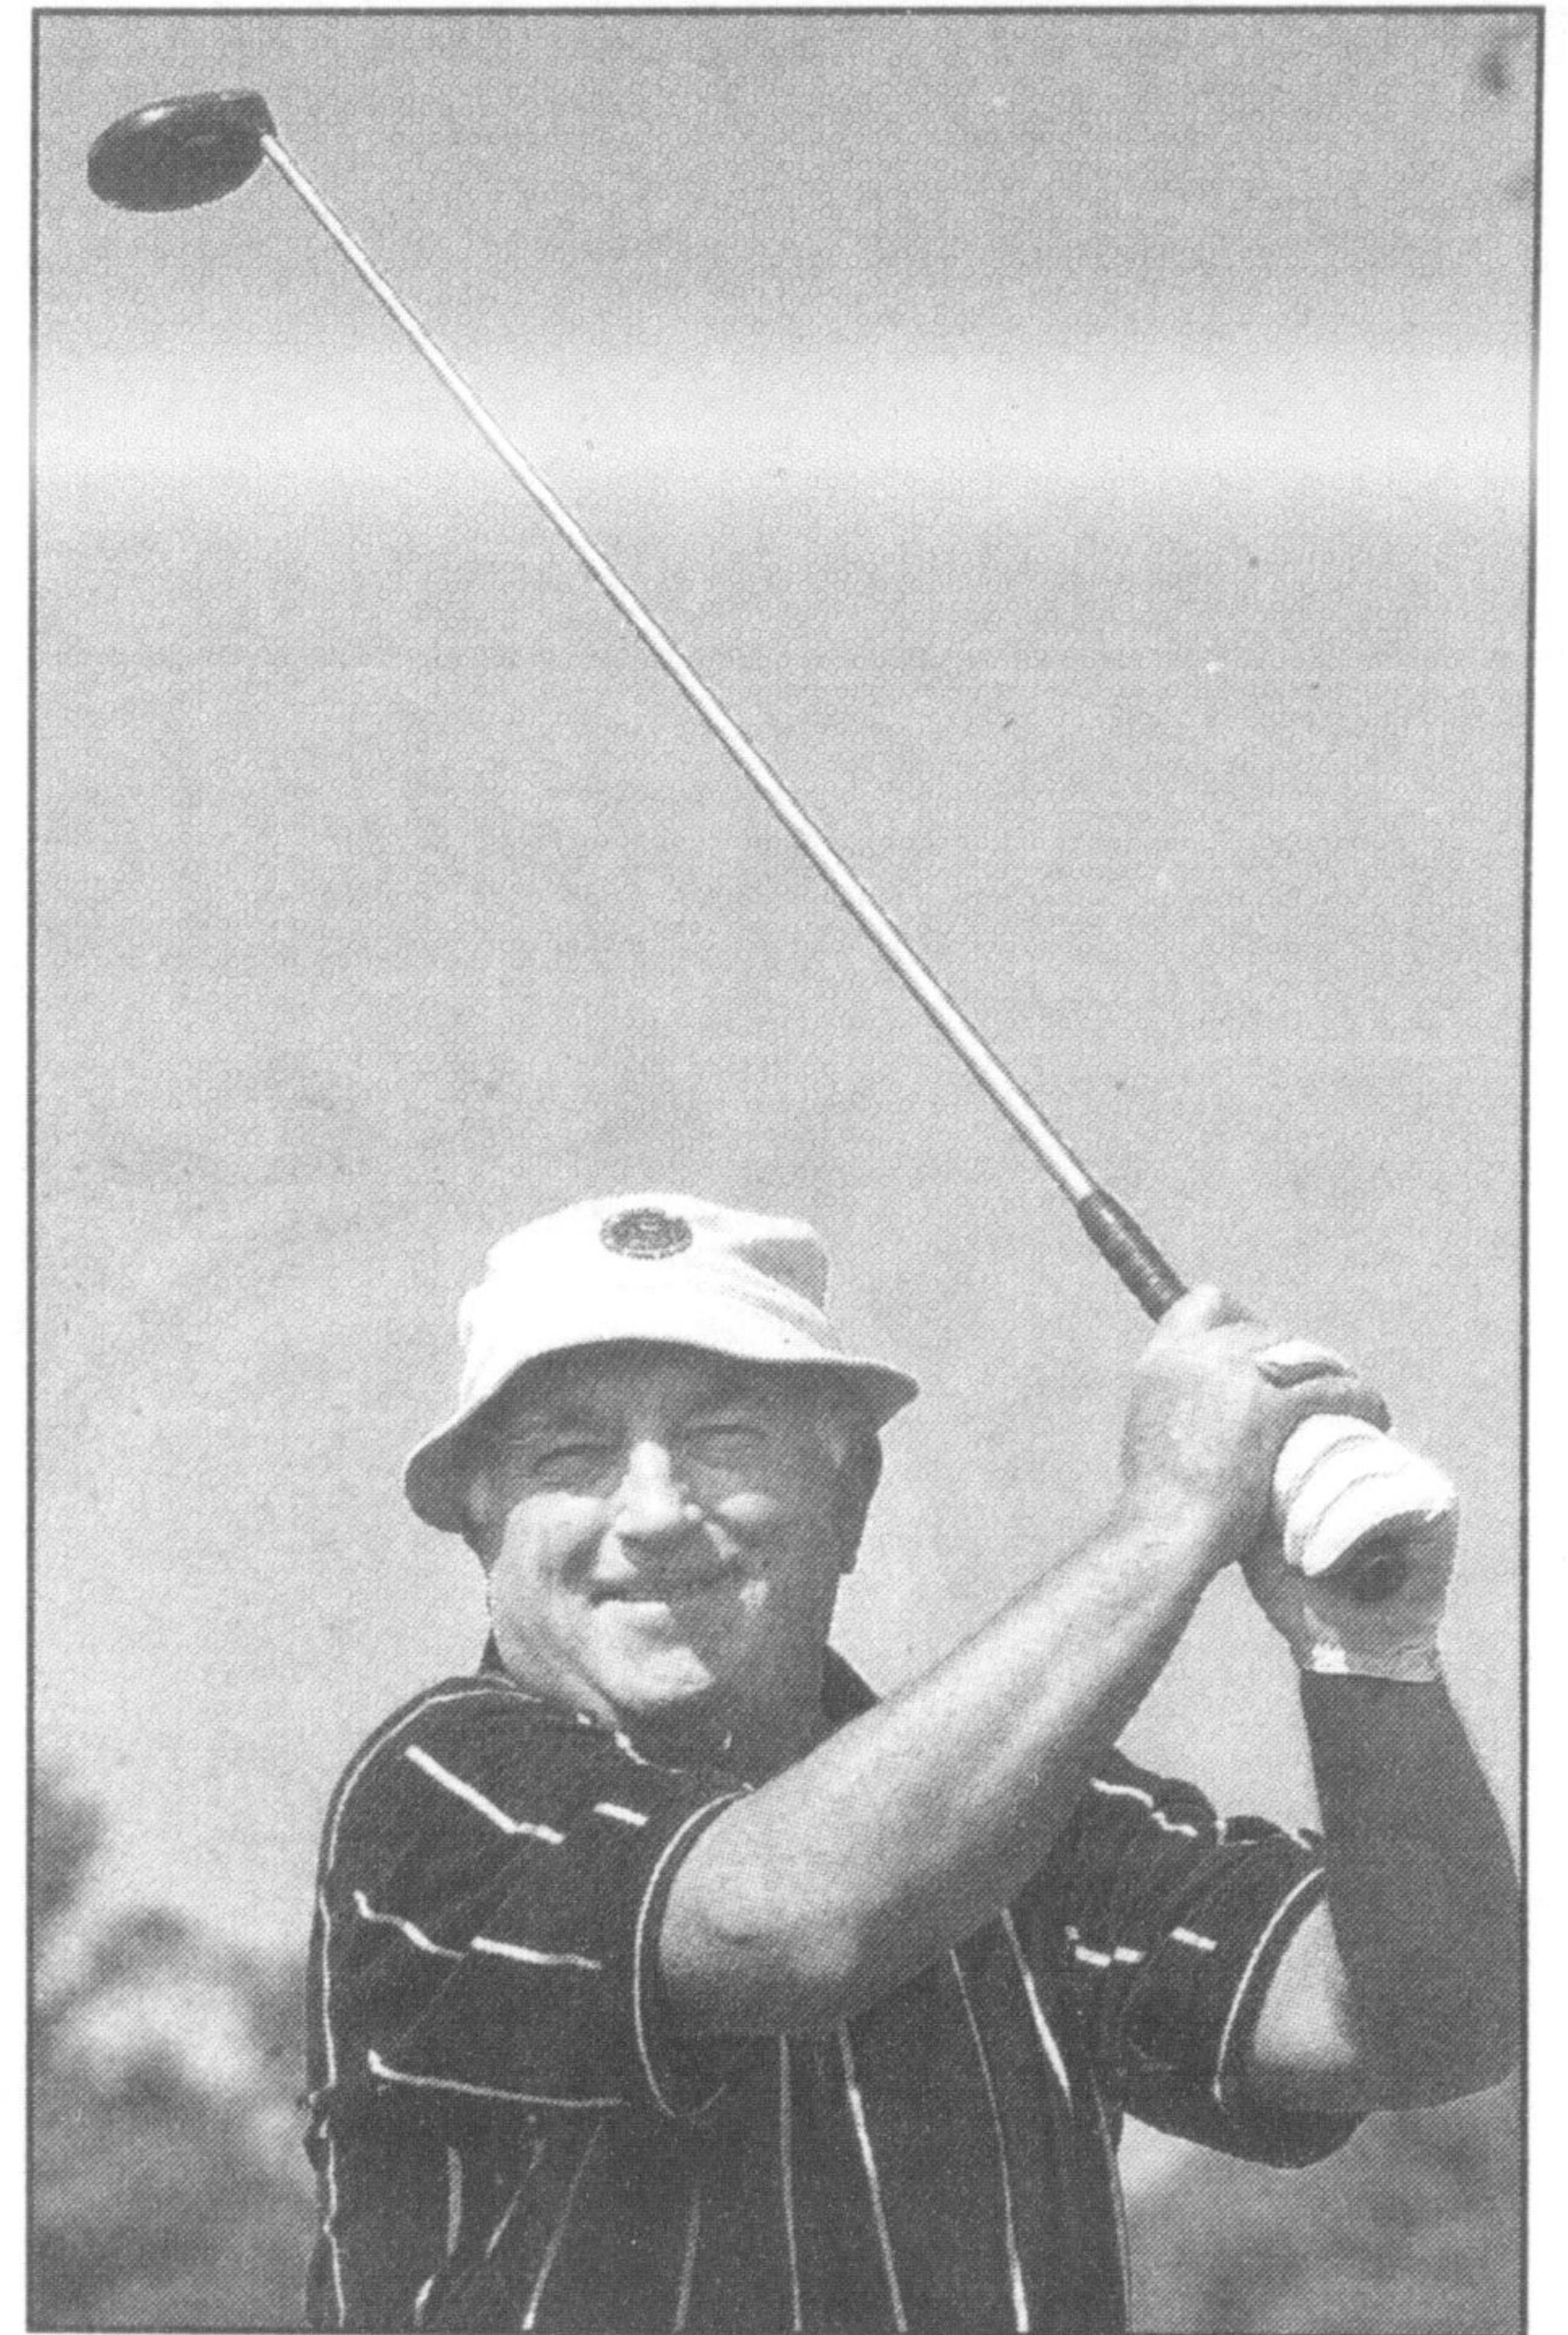

One of my favourite terms in design is "Cocooning", which simply put is the art of surrounding yourself with beautiful things. Beauty, however, is in the eye of the beholder, making cocooning a very personal matter. If you are dreaming about lavender walls and white cotton slipcovers, go for it. Just because your best friend, who happens to have great taste, is pushing you for earth tones, doesn't mean a variety of shades of taupe are going to make you happy. Your home should be your oasis, your retreat from that nasty world beyond your front door. Upon entering your home, you should feel a sense of relief, kick off your shoes and say, "It's great to be home!" The big question is how do we make our homes feel that way? If you are struggling for decorating identity, start with the simple things. Open your closet and determine what colour you gravitate towards when choosing clothes. If it is predominantly black don't worry! This probably means your tastes are somewhat sophisticated. Look for items you have picked up on your travels. Roadside souvenirs, maps, postcards and my personal favourite, beach finds such as shells, starfish, sea sponge, and sand dollars make great accessories as well as conversation pieces. Display collections, and even childhood items. If Aunt Martha's teacups make you feel nostalgic, don't hide them away. They can be used as containers for an herb garden, or cut the bottoms out to make whimsical curtain tie backs. I love to frame my children's artwork. I can change it frequently, it makes them feel good, and visitors always stop and look. Besides, my kids have done some great work, especially compared to some pieces I have seen sell for thousands of dollars! Family photos fill in empty wall space nicely too. Try taking some pictures on a black and white film for something really worth displaying.

At Pickets & Primrose we help people every day. Selecting paint colours, fabrics and wall coverings to compliment your home and personal taste We help you pull a look together by adding something new to something old, and sometimes, something old to something new! Bring in your samples and your pictures and we will make your house not only look great, but feel like home. Remember, it's all about you and your space! Editorial copy supplied by Pickets & Primrose, located Downtown Milton, 300 Main St., 905-878-4747.

Teeing it up for charity

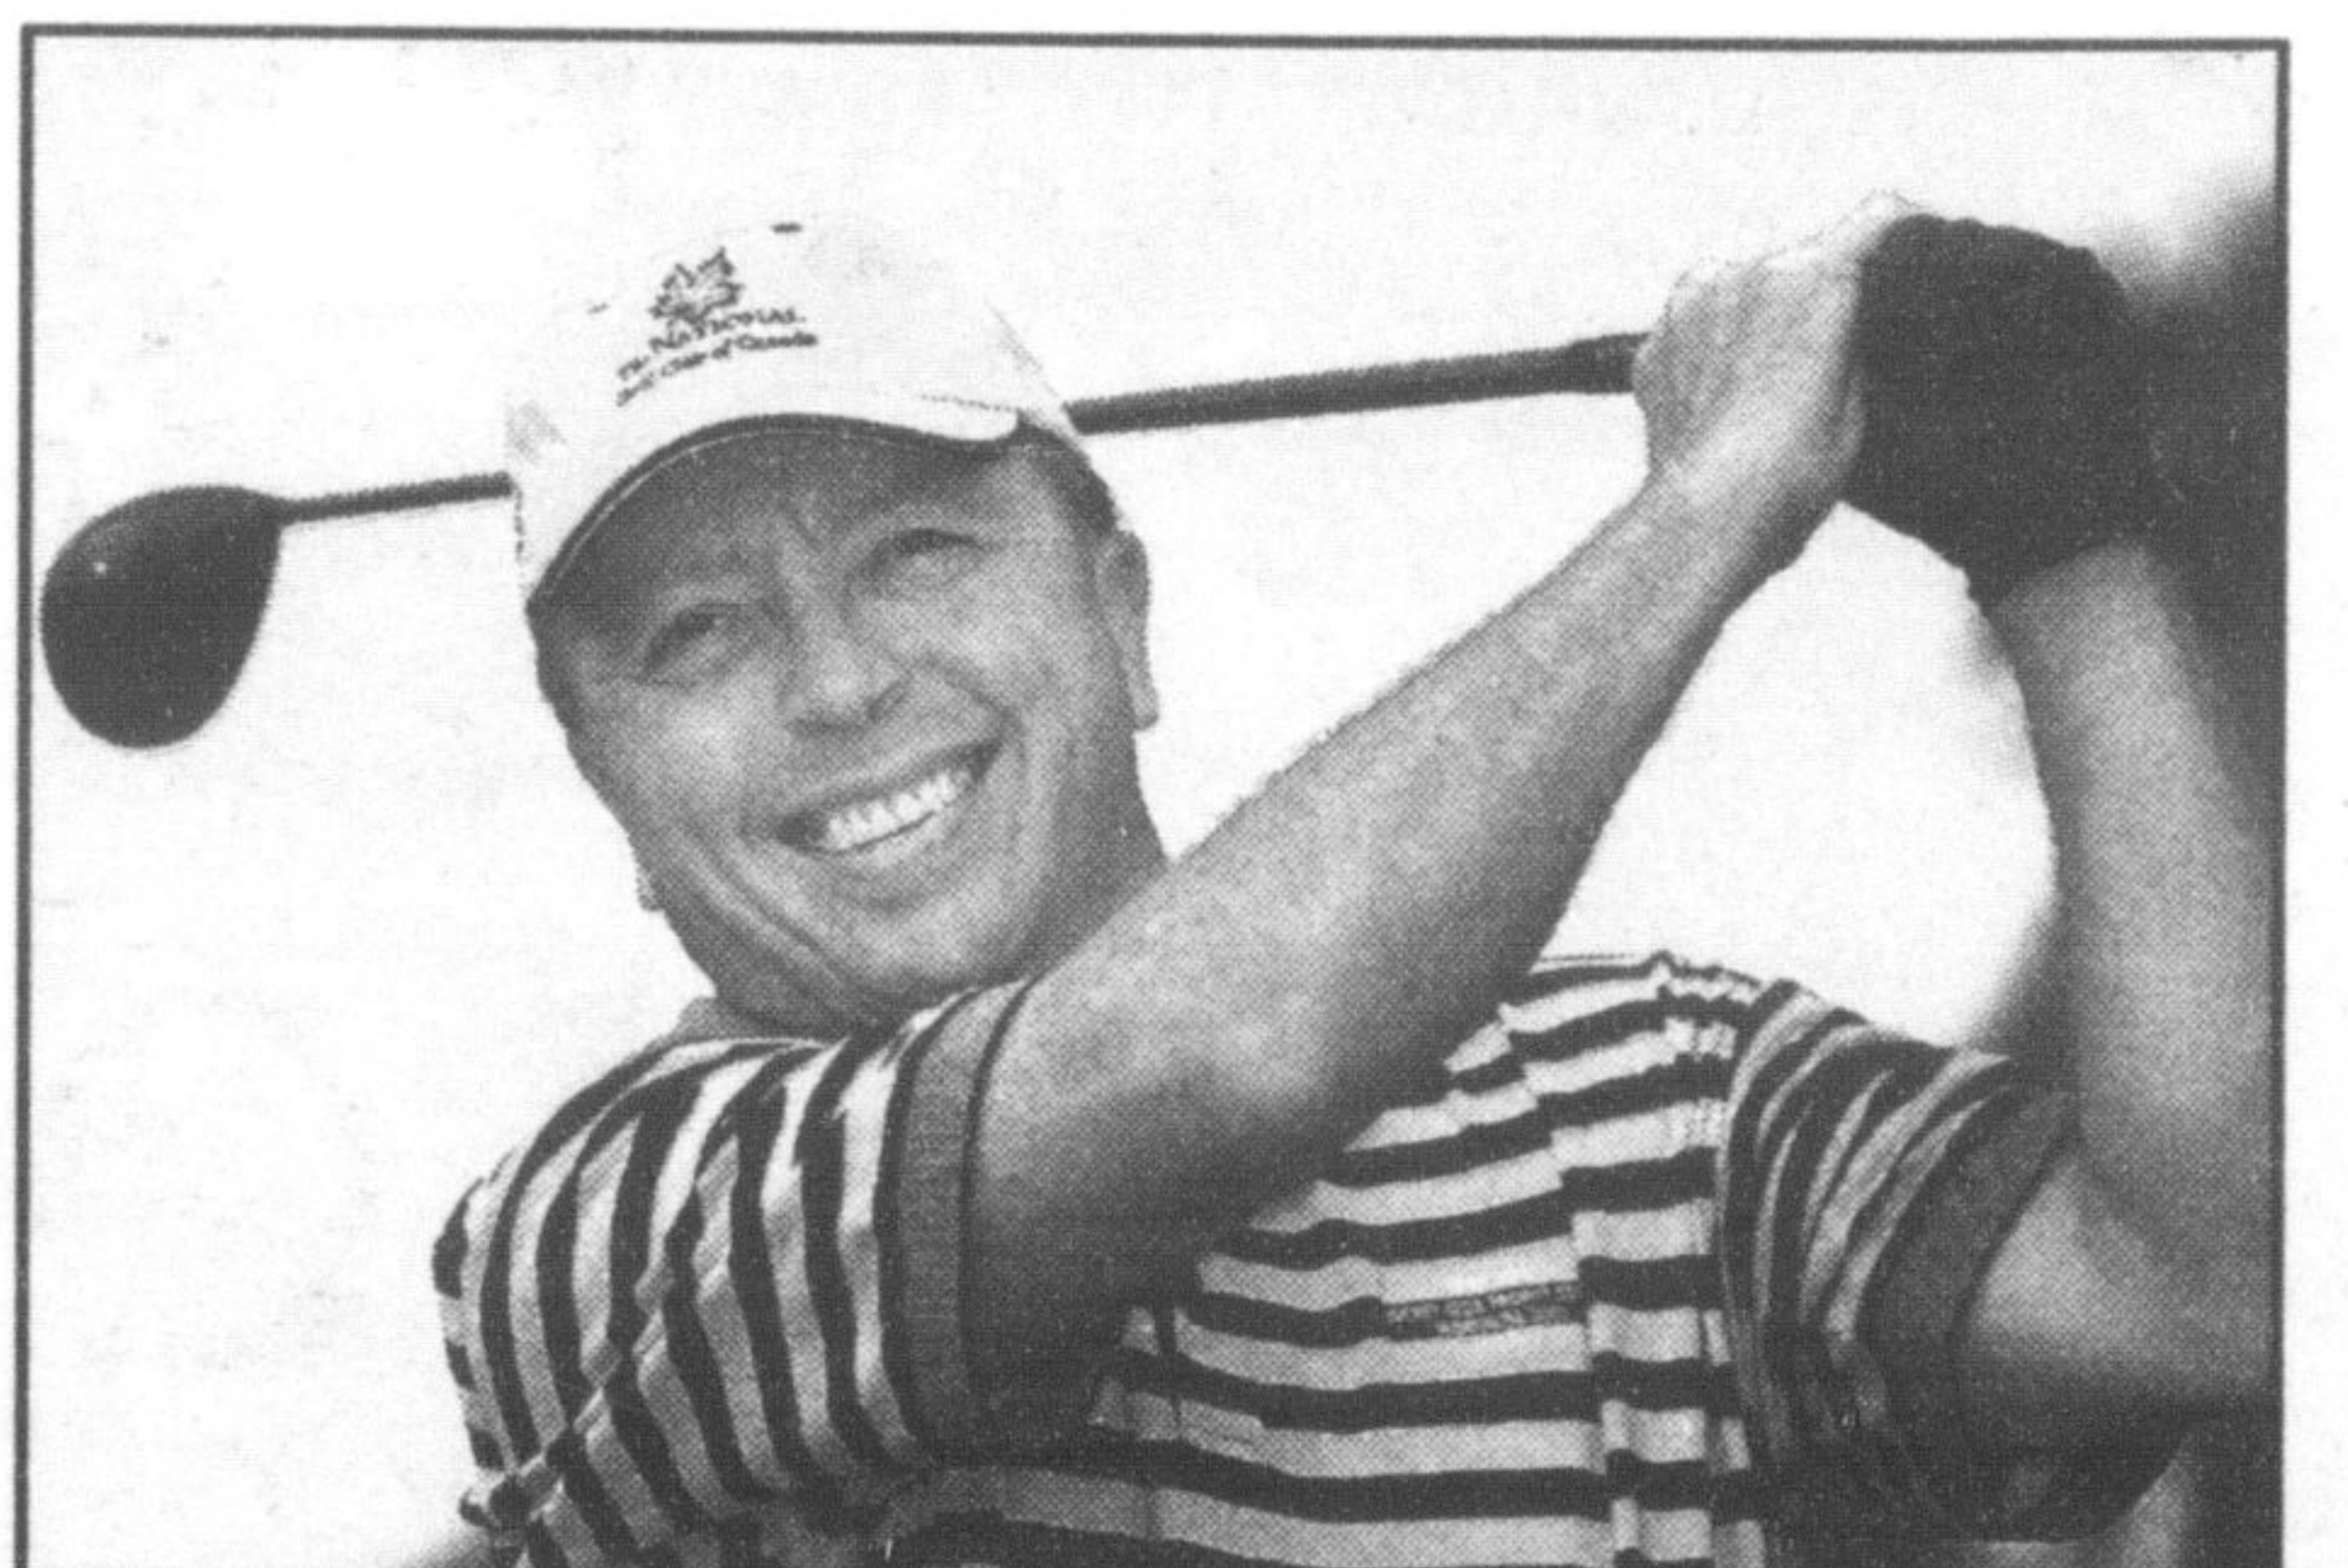

The 10th annual Golfing 4 Cancer tournament hit the links Monday at Hornby Glen Golf Course, with a field of 288 golfers. Along with the golf, the event included a dinner and a silent auction.

At top, Len Lee, golfing for the first time in the tournament, lets his drive fly off the first tee. Above, the second wave of golfers head out in their carts for the afternoon shotgun start. At left, Chicago Blackhawks great Bobby Hull displays one of the many silent auction items, a stick he autographed.
