

Public can learn about law enforcement in Halton

The Halton Regional Police Service is offering its ever-popular Citizen Police Academy once again starting September 9.

The Citizen Police Academy (CPA) will consist of 12 sessions offered to the public to give residents a first hand look at the life of police officers. It will provide attendees with a better understanding of the services provided to Halton residents.

"CPA is an excellent opportunity to create new partnerships between the police and the community and to create an opportunity for open dialogue with the officers who deliver our services," said Inspector Jackie Gordon.

Sessions will take place in the auditorium of the Halton Regional Centre, at 1151 Bronte Rd. in Oakville.

The academy is open to members of the public who are interested in learning more about Halton Regional Police Service.

Topics will include live demonstrations from the public safety unit, tactical and rescue unit, communication bureau and the polygraph unit.

There will also be an opportunity to participate in a live scenario.

Other topics include the drug and morality unit, intelligence bureau and the terrorism, fraud and major crime unit.

Graduates of the CPA will receive a framed certificate, a golf shirt and a photo of the graduating class.

"We are searching for a cross section of people from our community to participate," Inspector Gordon said.

"We have found that the questions and discussions are far more interesting and informative when the class composition is more diverse."

For registration information, contact Patricia Wildes at (905) 878-5511, ext. 5042.

Board member required

Oakville's Grace House, a group home providing support for adults with a variety of psychiatric and social disadvantages, is looking for a volunteer board member.

The successful candidate will be required to attend monthly meetings on the last Tuesday of each month, within an informal setting.

The region-wide support facility is also in need of help with cleaning and yard maintenance.

Those interested in applying for either position are asked to call Dave Klarer at (905) 844-4772.

Correction

The headline in a story in Friday's Champion incorrectly referred to a Halton District School Board event as being a teachers' conference.

In actual fact, the event was a conference for principals and vice-principals.

We apologize for the error and any inconvenience it may have caused.

WAL-MART CORRECTION NOTICE

Due to circumstances beyond our control, the Skippy Peanut Butter (#9269060/88/116) advertised on page 37 of our current flyer (expiring Aug. 31st) will not be available.

We apologize for any inconvenience this may have caused.
