THIS MESSAGE HAS BEEN BROUGHT TO YOU

*"We are the dead" phantom voices exclaim
"For Freedom we died" I hear them proclaim
As their ghostly faces, like wraiths drift by
I perceive them, as being too young to die*

*They are the faces of the young and brave
Who died in a conflict, to freedom save
Faces so young, that will never grow old
Bodies once warm, now in death are cold*

*From town and farm, from all walks of life
Volunteering, when the bugle sounded strife
Into the battle's forefront, they went to fight
Valiantly they struggled, for what was right*

*We'll give thanks to them, in a silent way
A tribute to them, on Remembrance Day
One minute of silence, is the way that we Can thank those, who've entered eternity*

*To honour their memory, we forever must
Guard the freedom, they left to us in trust
Remembrance Day, which must ever remain
Is how we tell them, they did not die in vain*
