Part of Main St. a raceway: Boughton

Commercial streets was built into two lanes and the streetscape was redesigned.

The American Public Works Association gave the Town an award in recognition of that project.

"The reason we're doing this is to promote pedestrian activity in the area," said Paul Cripps, Milton engineering director, at the open house.

That's what the owner of Tielemans Interiors Inc., a downtown fixture at the corner of Court and Main streets since 1971, is hoping happens.

Dan Tielemans was one of more than a dozen people who attended the open house to absorb the construction plans.

"I like it," he said. "We felt our location never felt a part of the downtown, so it (construction) is a plus."

His main concern is how five months of construction will impact his business.

Miles Street resident Tiffany Stewart, who lives near Town Hall, isn't in love with the plan.

She said traffic along Main Street is congested enough without having to reduce the number of lanes. For her to get to Loblaws on the east side of the core area, for example, she said she has to bypass busy Main Street.

Instead, she said she travels north on Bronte Street to go east on Steeles Avenue or south on Bronte to go east on Derry

Road, making for a longer trip.

Ward 2 Councillor Mike Boughton, who owns a hairstyling business in the core, said the street work, if approved, will be a "good thing." He said it will create an esthetic and functional consistency in the downtown.

And slowing down traffic is a must, he said, noting some houses dot the street.

"Between Commercial and Ontario, it's become a raceway."

Meanwhile, another phase of major road work slated for Main Street includes constructing an overpass to cross the CN Rail tracks, east of Ontario Street.
