

Milton correctional officer faces sex assault charges

Investigation continues at local facility

A correctional officer faces sexual assault charges in connection with an investigation at the Vanier Institute for Women in Milton.

Arrested Sunday, the male employee of the Maplehurst Correctional Centre-based facility — whose name is being withheld to protect the safety of the victims — has been charged with four counts of breach of trust and three counts of sexual assault.

An investigation was launched after the Halton Regional Police Child and Sexual Assault Bureau received information in January that a correctional officer at the Vanier Institute for Women had been providing contraband to female inmates in exchange for sexual favours.

Police are also withholding details on the type of contraband involved, as their investigation is ongoing.

The suspect has been released and will appear in Burlington Provincial Court April 20.

Correction

A story in Tuesday's Champion about an arrest in a massage parlour raid in Burlington contained incorrect information.

It was reported that a 27-year-old Milton man was charged with being an inmate (assisting in the operation) of a common bawdy house last Friday, when in fact it was a 27-year-old Milton woman.

The Champion regrets any inconvenience caused by this error.
