

Woman awarded for lifesaving education efforts

Milton resident Lynn Galioto was recently recognized by the Royal Life Saving Society for her efforts in drowning prevention and lifesaving education.

In a ceremony held last month in Aurora, Ms Galioto was presented with the society's Commonwealth Honour Award, the Certificate of Thanks.

Ms Galioto is an instructor and examiner in the Society's lifesaving, lifeguard and first aid programs. She's an aquatic safety inspector and holds the Society's aquatic supervisor training certification.

She's been an instructor trainer for the past 10 years.

Ms Galioto has served as the Society's area chair for the Halton-Peel region since 1999, acting as a link between the Society and its affiliate members.

"Lynn brings a conscientious and hard-working approach to these relationships and the management of the Society's affairs in the area," said a Society spokesperson.

Rotarians celebrate achievements

Celebrating a number of selfless achievements, the Rotary Club of Milton's annual awards night was held last Friday at Hugh Foster Hall.

About 75 Rotarians and friends were in attendance to show their support to the evening's award winners.

The evening's climax was the presentation of the Paul Harris Fellowship, the highest honour that can be bestowed by Rotary, to Karl Reichert.

For a number of years, Mr. Reichert has been on a journey that resulted in the recent opening of Martindale Gardens, Milton's newest assisted living establishment.

A number of presentations took place throughout the night, including one by Rotarian Blanche Hinton, who spoke about her Rotary project assisting two deaf schools in Rwanda and Kenya.

Rotarian Amit Karia presented a slide show on the creation of a tribal school in India through the efforts of Milton Rotarians.

Several other individuals were honoured for their community efforts in the Milton and Halton areas and related how the Rotary Club has helped their efforts.

Among the speakers were Jeff Feairs, who spoke about young people finding new paths through the SCORE program and Breakfasts for Kids, John Bedell from Community Living North Halton and Glenn Goldstraw from Allendale House.
