Many of us take our hearing and ability to speak for granted. For one in ten Canadians however, speech, language or hearing problems are a daily challenge.

The Canadian Association of Speech-Language Pathologists and Audiologists (CASLPA), and our 4,600 members across the country are working together throughout the month of May to raise public awareness concerning the professions and the many issues surrounding speech, language and hearing disorders.

Speech-language Pathologists and Audiologists work daily with Canadians of all ages to help them deal with many different types of communication disorders. As reflected in this year's theme, these professionals "Care About Communication!" Whether working with an autistic child, or a person recovering from a stroke, they strive tirelessly to help improve the quality of life and health of the people they serve.

May Month promotes and celebrates both the professions and the contributions made by speech-language pathologists and audiologists to the health of our country. Watch for exciting events in your community such as hearing screenings, speech clinic open houses, contests, radio talk shows and other activities.

If you would like to know more please visit our website www.caslpa.ca or contact your provincial Speech and Hearing Association.

New Milton Centre for Deaf Individuals with Developmental Disabilities

The Bob Rumball Associations for the Deaf provides a variety of care and support to deaf children and adults with a variety of needs including deaf individuals with developmental disabilities. Currently, there are few specialized services for these people in Ontario.

We are meeting this need by building a new Day Centre in Milton which will expand the space available for the growing deaf community and their requirements. The Centre will provide job skills training and, for many, can assist with job placement, life skills, literacy, basic math, and internet training. For more information about the Bob Rumball Associations for the Deaf and the new Milton Day Centre call 905-878-4932.
