

Super-size showcase

Mr. Handyman Opens in Halton/Wellington

Fast Facts: After working through the hi-tech collapse in 2001, and a sales career in the building products industry, Jerry Saunders decided to leave the corporate world to open a Mr. Handyman franchise in North Halton in April of this year.

"Homeowners have a difficult time finding someone to take care of their needs," Saunders said. "Contractors don't want to bother with smaller jobs, and that leaves a huge gap. Add to that the time constraints and limited experience homeowners have in repairs and renovations, and you can see the need for a company that will pay attention to individual homes and offices."

According to Saunders, Mr. Handyman provides professional service in a field that has often lacked professionalism. An experienced and uniformed service technician pulls up to each job in a clean and well-marked van. Services range from carpentry and drywall repair, to fixing a leaky faucet or hanging curtain rods. Technicians specialize in the 'honey-do lists' with which many homeowners and property managers struggle.

"The majority of our customers just don't have the time or tools to handle most of these tasks," says Saunders. "With full time techs on the road, we have the ability to match the skill set of each tech to the needs of each customer. We are bringing a professional image to handyman services."

Look for Mr. Handyman under the Handyman listing of the Service Directory section in the Champion. Jerry and his team are happy to handle your maintenance, repair and clean-up chores. Call them in Milton at 905-875-0555 or in Halton Hills at 519-853-2944.
