

Haydar's Ads win all the gold

period Sunday that his teammates felt certain the series was won.

"That strong start really deflated them (Penguins) and took the fans out of it," he explained.

So did Haydar look to anything as extra inspiration through the stretch drive? "Well, I think just being up there in the scoring race gave me a lot of confidence and helped to keep me motivated."

Sunday's win capped a championship-rich season for the Admirals, who won the regular season title before nabbing their first playoff crown in 29 years — the last one captured in the former IHL.

Haydar's individual scoring triumph — which included seven multi-point games and a handful of first-star selections — should give him at least some added leverage heading into this summer's re-negotiation with Milwaukee, and its parent Nashville Predators.

Midgets take two

The Midget Red Sox took two games from Mississauga within the past week — one win traditional, the other of the forfeit variety.

The latter came Tuesday night, when a member on the opposing Titans found a previous injury a little too painful to play through. Since Mississauga began the evening with just the minimum nine, Milton earned the win before the game was an inning old.

Two nights earlier, the Red Sox had to work for their victory — outgunning Mississauga 10-6.

Milton pulled ahead for good in the fifth inning and enjoyed clutch hitting from Marcas Gray, Lee Mathé, Nick Vipond and Tyler Grace.

A timely sacrifice bunt by Jordan Fagin factored into the hard-fought win as well, while Scott McTrach went the distance on the hill — caught in expert fashion by Sean Mathé. The Red Sox battled back from two separate deficits to score the win.

On the move
