

Bert Stewart of Hornby is elected president of Canadian 4-H Council

Hornby resident Bert Stewart was recently elected president of the Canadian 4-H Council.

The long-time 4-H Ontario leader was elected last month while in Victoria, B.C., where 4-H council representatives, Canadian 4-H Foundation trustees and others gathered for the organization's 73rd annual general meeting.

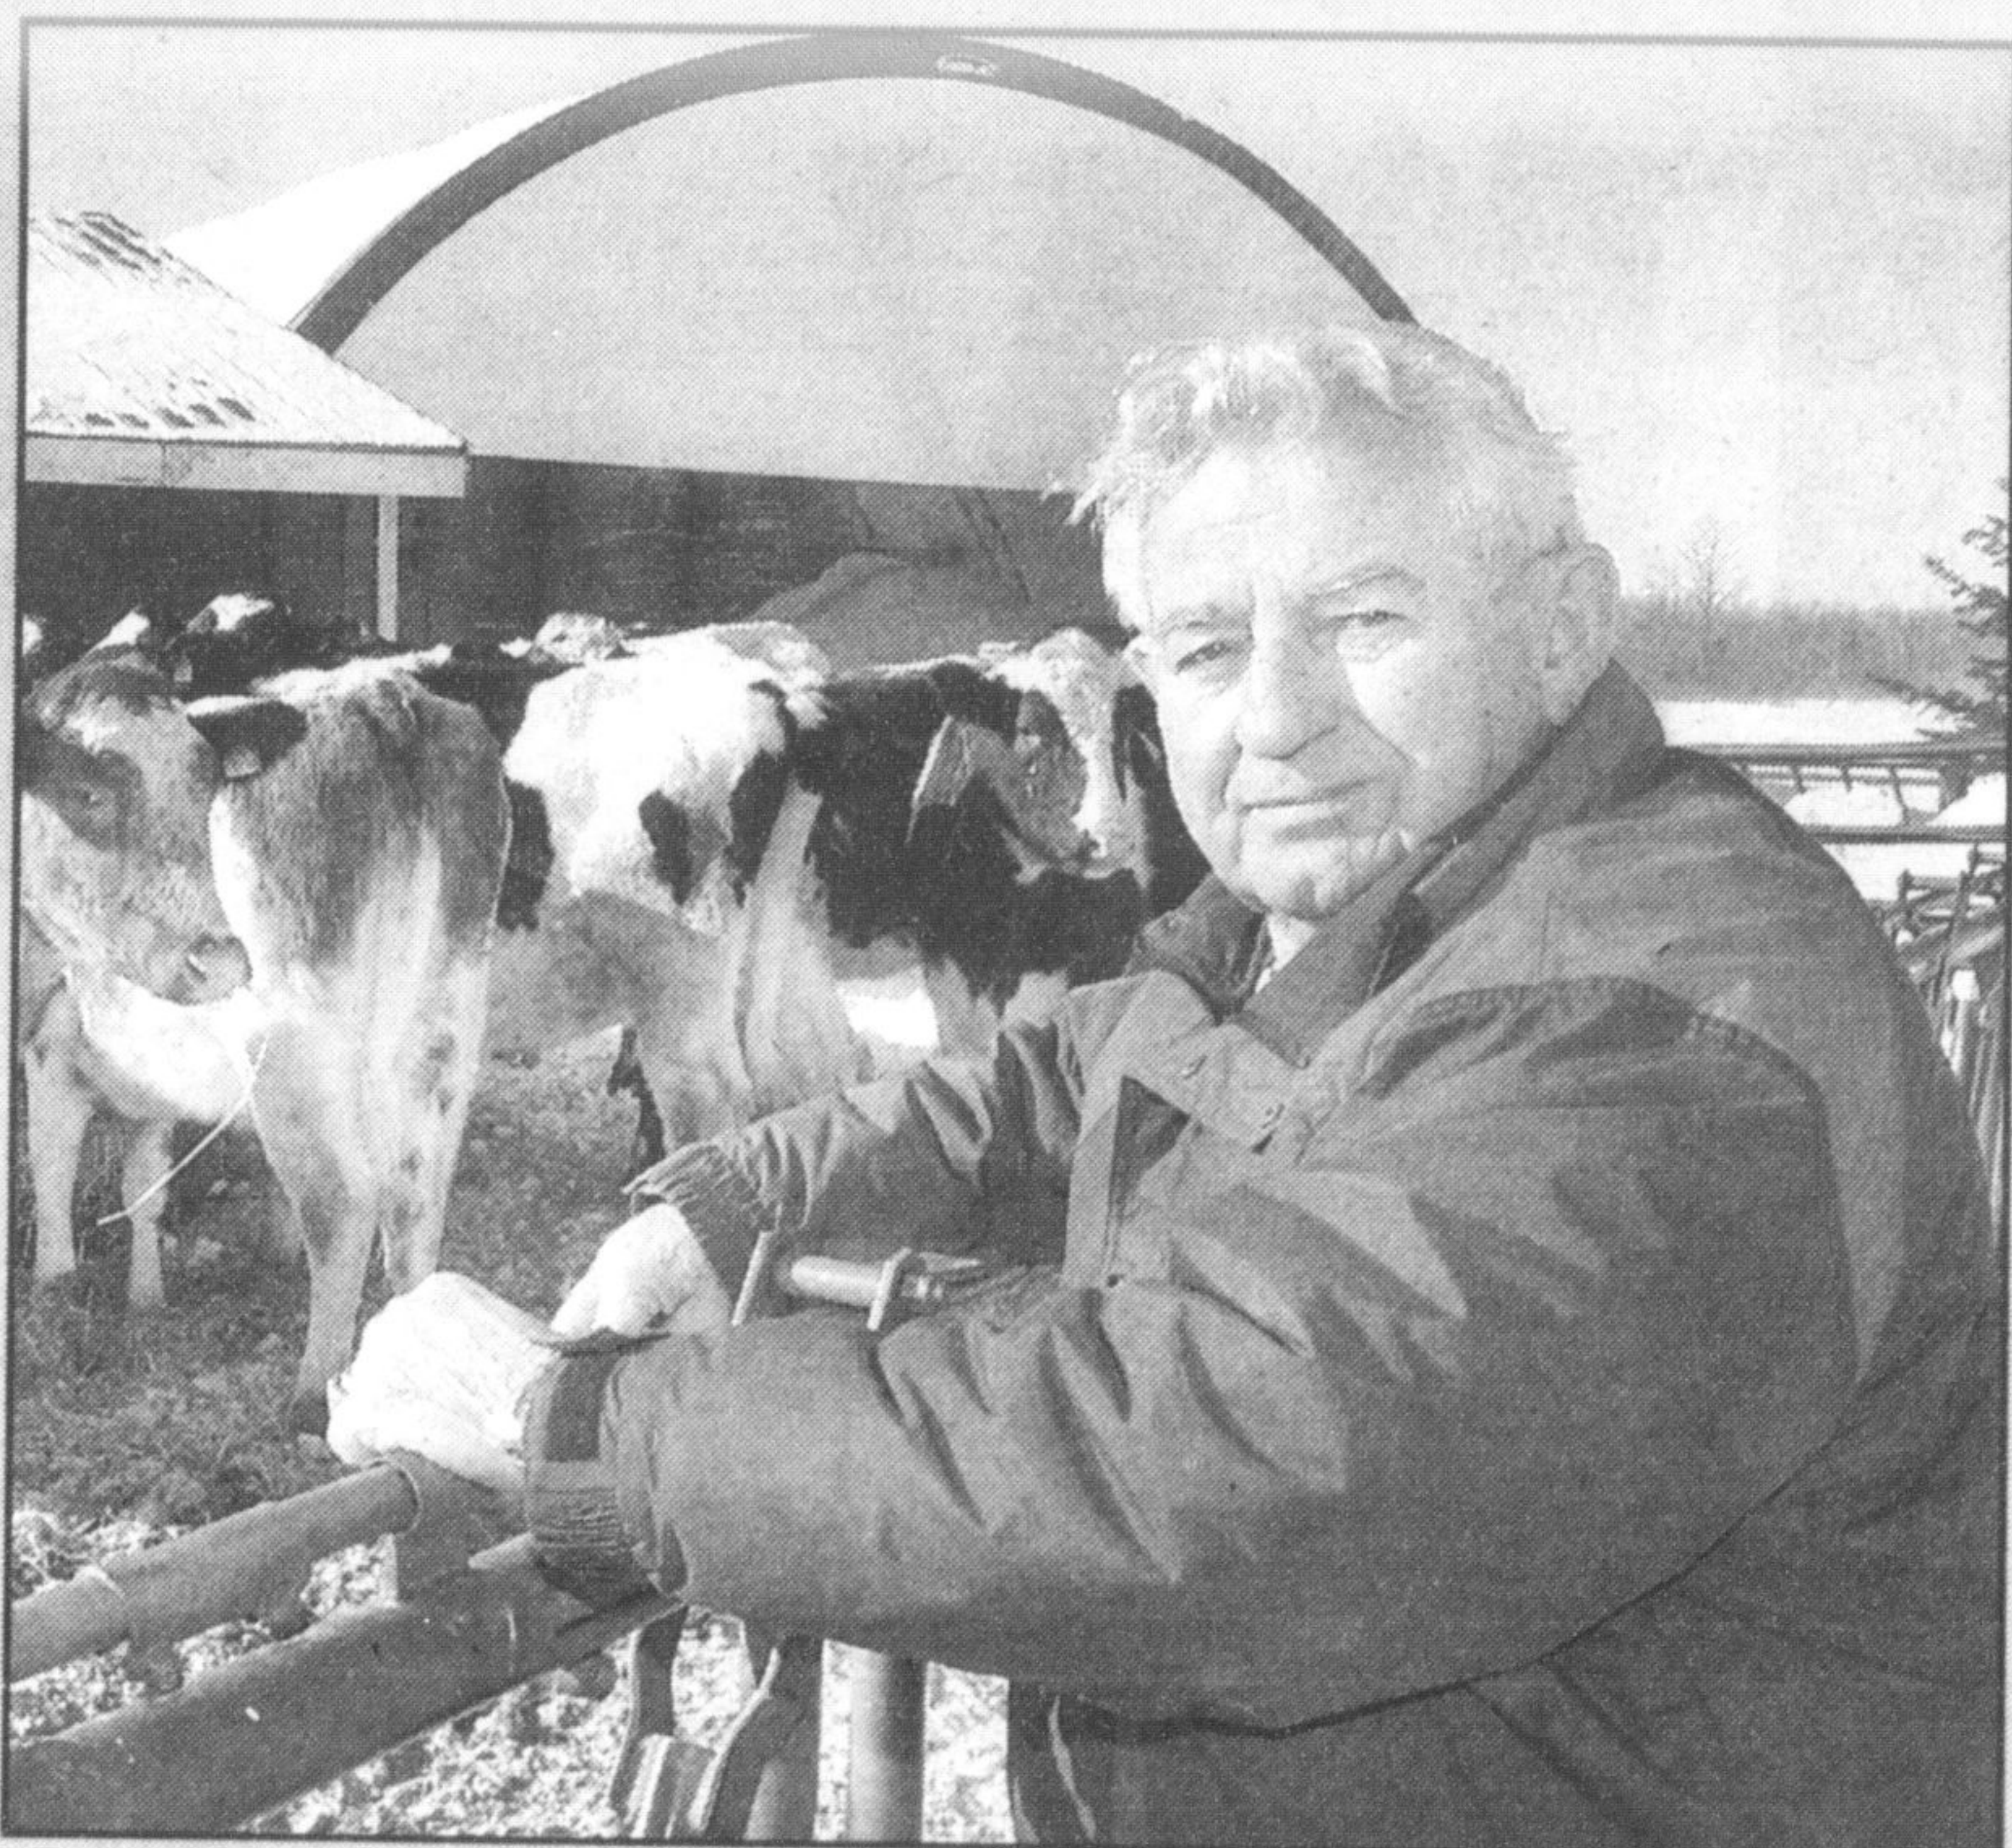

Mr. Stewart will serve a one-year term beginning May, 2005.

Mr. Stewart, the Semex Alliance's member representative to the Canadian 4-H Council, served as a 4-H leader for 38 years. Both he and his wife, Hazel, have volunteered in 4-H and now have seven grandchildren, most of whom have been 4-H members.

His list of volunteer work and accomplishments is long and varied, and includes coaching all 14 4-H Ontario winning judging teams at the World Dairy Expo.

He's the winner of many awards, including the Ontario Minister of Agriculture and Food's Centennial Award and the Golden Jubilee Medal for service to Halton, as well as volunteer recognition by the University of Guelph for his work with Agri Food and Rural Communities.

Mr. Stewart's involvement in 4-H at the national level includes serving two terms with the Canadian 4-H Council's board of directors.

Bert Stewart and his family have long been involved in 4-H.

He has served on the public relations, financial management and program committees.

His expertise as a dairy consultant is renowned not only in Ontario, but around the world, and he has judged dairy cattle shows worldwide.

Mr. Stewart said the 4-H program deserves recognition.

"As a former 4-H leader, I know firsthand the positive impact this program has on members and volunteers," he said, adding, "I'm excited and proud to play a role in shaping the program for future generations of rural youth across this country."

the first car the museum acquired," said Caroline Rose, a co-ordinator of the celebration.

"The T.T.C. 1326 is a wooden car that has been restored. Guests will be able to ride on the car on the day of the celebration."

The Halton County Radial Railway, located on Guelph Line, was founded on New Year's Eve in 1953 when the land was purchased from the Town of Nassagaweya due to back taxes.

Over the next 18 years, the original railway was re-established and now 67 cars, acquired from all across Canada, are on display at the museum. Opened to the public in 1972, the museum has had well over 100,000 people visit and experience the heritage of the trains.

The original Rockwood Station was relocated to the property in 1971 when it was rescued from demolition.

It has since been restored and its authentic look adds charm to the museum.

Museum run by volunteers

Completely run by volunteers, the Halton County Radial Railway has approximately 900 members but only about 100 of them are actively involved in running the museum's activities.

The museum will open at 11 a.m. July 10 and the anniversary festivities are scheduled to begin at 1 p.m.

The celebration is open to the public with admission being $9.50, or $6.50 for youth and $8.50 for seniors. Children under 3 years of age are admitted free.

"We invite everyone to come out and help us celebrate the museum's anniversary with us," said Ms Rose.

"It should be a lot of fun."

Your United Way In Action The United Way of Milton

On Thursday, June 24th, the United Way of Milton was invited to participate in the staff barbeque held by local employer Robertson Inc. On this beautiful sunny day, representatives from the United Way of Milton helped Robertson staff prepare hamburgers and hot dogs for everyone to enjoy. The event helped to introduce the United Way of Milton to the Robertson staff in preparation for their upcoming United Way employee campaign this fall.

Employee campaigns are a critical part of United Way fundraising. Every year, companies within Milton gear up for their fall campaign. Each company's employee campaign coordinator and committee plan special events and other festivities in conjunction with United Way staff to raise money to support the United Way of Milton. Local employers view these campaigns as a fun way to build team spirit within the workplace through a cause that helps the whole community.

The United Way of Milton makes it easy to organize an employee campaign with special instruction kits and as much staff assistance as you require. In addition, out of town employees can easily designate their donation to their home city, if they so choose. For more information about organizing an employee campaign for your office, contact Anne Eadie.
