Donations sought for hurricane victims

Hurricane Ivan is the most powerful hurricane to hit the Caribbean in the last decade. In Grenada alone, more than a dozen people have died, 90 per cent of the buildings have been destroyed or damaged, more than 50,000 people are homeless and there's no water or electricity.

The Canadian Red Cross is responding by sending cash and preparing to deploy staff specialized in logistics and water sanitation to the region. It's also asking for the public's financial support.

The Red Cross is contributing $50,000 in addition to $50,000 from Scotiabank, earmarked for Grenada. Canadians are encouraged to support the relief efforts by making a cash donation in support of the International Red Cross's worldwide preliminary appeal for $1.79 million.

Funds raised will help provide shelter materials, food, blankets, kitchen sets, hygiene items and jerry cans to 10,000 of the most vulnerable people affected.

In recent days, Hurricane Ivan has left a horrific path of destruction — hitting some of the poorest countries in the Eastern Caribbean. It has wreaked havoc, starting September 5 as a category four hurricane, then gathering strength to become a category five storm, the highest possible.

It has left death and destruction in its wake, hitting Barbados, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, the Grenadines, Trinidad and Tobago, Jamaica and the Cayman Islands. At press time yesterday, it was approaching Cuba and Florida.

The situation in Grenada is extremely serious. The Grenada Red Cross Society headquarters was among the most seriously damaged buildings. It has relocated its emergency operations centre to one of the shelters. The sub-regional office in Trinidad and Tobago is following the situation closely.

"The destruction caused by Hurricane Ivan is devastating some of the most vulnerable countries in the Eastern Caribbean," said José Garcia-Lozano, deputy director of International Programs, the Canadian Red Cross. "The people impacted by this disaster urgently need assistance to simply cover their basic needs for items such as food, clean water and shelter. Through the generous support of individual Canadians and corporations, we are one step closer to making that help a reality."

Canadians requesting information about family members in the affected region may contact the North Halton Red Cross branch. At present, the priority is on the emergency relief operation. But in the coming days the Red Cross, through its Restoring Family Links program, will begin processing tracing requests.

Canadians wishing to make financial donations may donate at www.redcross.ca, call the North Halton Red Cross branch at (905) 875-1459 or call 1-800-418-1111.

The 24-hour toll-free line accepts Visa and MasterCard. Cheques should be made payable to the Canadian Red Cross, earmarked '2004 Hurricane Relief' and mailed to Canadian Red Cross National Office, 170 Metcalfe St., suite 300, Ottawa, Ont., K2P 2P2. Donations of goods aren't accepted. For information on how Red Cross manages donations, visit the 'How we care for your donations' section at www.redcross.ca.
