At Gorrud's, you're never left wondering if there will be a better sale later in the year. Plus, every one of our cars is carefully selected and must pass our 110-point mechanical, appearance and detail inspection before it ever goes on the lot. If it fails, we won't sell it. We back that up with a 30-day or 2500 km exchange policy, a 6-month or 10,000 km powertrain warranty and a 30-day mechanical warranty. And we put it in writing. It's simply our best sale of the year. Period.

Envelopes designated for Santa Claus parade

• from DONATIONS on page 1 charity."

Even if they were a legitimate charity, Ms McKee pointed out they were still stealing, since they were accepting money handed to them in envelopes designated for the Santa Claus Parade.

"I asked them to leave twice, but they wouldn't leave," she said. "When I talked with the female and said, 'You have no authority to be here,' she said she had permission from the parade chair. I said, 'I'm the chair.' None of them would give me the money from their tins."

Ms McKee said the incident certainly cast a pall over the parade, the eighth for which she's volunteered.

She said she was expecting this parade to be her last one as co-chair.

But not anymore. Ms McKee said she can't bear to end on a sour note.

"I'm disheartened that this happened in Milton and that people thought they were giving to the parade," she said. "It really put a cloud over the parade. I love my parade. I was going to retire after this year, but I'll probably do one more."

Ms McKee said she's in the midst of filing a police report and is looking for the community's help. She's asking anyone at the parade who has a flyer from the fraudulent collectors, or a home video or photos of the scammers to e-mail her at lauranne62@hotmail.com.

Det. Sgt. Don Cousens of Halton Regional Police said if the community gets involved, chances are pretty good the suspects can be caught.

"We could do a sequential breakdown of who was collecting — but it's got to be reported first," he said.

Mr. Scherer said safeguards will be put in place to ensure the same thing doesn't happen next year.

Fortunately, though the 'Bucket Brigade' is a chunk of the fundraising, it's not the largest portion. That comes through sponsors and donations before the parade, Mr. Scherer said.

"It's an important part of the fundraising, but it's not a critical part."

And it's not all bad news.

"The weather was disappointing, but it was one of the best parades ever," he said, adding there were at least 2,000 parade participants and more than 70 entries.

Sponsorships and donations were double those of last year, which Mr. Scherer attributed to his October plea for Miltonians to give generously.

More than $10,000 came through band sponsors and donations, he said.

The parade will likely still incur a deficit — about the amount suspected stolen — but not nearly the several thousand dollar shortfall experienced last year, Mr. Scherer said.

He said the parade committee's next step is to become an official non-profit group. This, he said, will enable it to apply for certain financial aids, including the Milton Community Fund.
