Phone calls most likely fraudulent

Local Jaycees not fundraising by telephone

By MELANIE HENNESSEY

The Champion

The president of the Milton Jaycees is cautioning local residents against giving money to telemarketers who say they're with the Junior Chamber of Commerce after reports of about five suspicious calls over the past week or so.

Mike Luzar told The Champion Wednesday the local Jaycees — also known as the junior chamber — aren't doing any telemarketing in Milton.

He noted the Burlington Jaycees are doing some fundraising by phone, but said they've been specifically instructed to only call within Burlington.

Mr. Luzar first became aware of the situation last Friday when he learned a man had contacted the Milton Chamber of Commerce to report he was solicited by someone who said they're from the junior chamber.

"He was asked if he would be donating again this year because he did last year," Mr. Luzar said.

But since the man actually didn't donate last year, he became suspicious.

Mr. Luzar said the local chamber then heard from four or five more people who've had similar calls.

"It's either somebody that has no scruples whatsoever or it's a very aggressive telemarketer," Mr. Luzar said. "Either way, don't give them your money."

He said he wasn't sure if the telemarketer has been successful in obtaining any money.

He noted while the Milton Jaycees ran a telemarketing campaign about three or four years ago, the group prefers not to do it and opts for fundraising at local events.

Mr. Luzar said the local junior chamber has never done door-to-door soliciting either and has no plans to in the future.

For those that want to make a donation to the Milton Jaycees, he said representatives will be at Showcase Milton May 6, 7 and 8 at the Milton Sports Centre.

He pointed out that the Jaycees do a lot of good work in the community, like support local charities, sports teams and other non-profit organizations. He also extended thanks to everyone who supports the Jaycees.

He added that he'll be filing a complaint on the calls with police shortly.

While Det. Const. Lauren Scisizzi of Halton Regional Police's fraud unit said police haven't received any reports of suspicious junior chamber phone calls, she offered a few tips to those who are contacted and asked for money.

"Really I think the bottom line is guard yourself, resist pressure and don't give out personal information," she said.

She noted that a person who receives a questionable telemarketer call can also ask for more information or a number they could call back.

Mr. Luzar encouraged anyone who thinks they've received a suspicious call from a telemarketer who says they're with the junior chamber to contact him at his business number — (905) 876-9300 — or Halton Regional Police at (905) 878-5511.
