Numerous awards handed out

• from CITIZENS on page 1

Mr. Joyce spoke simply and briefly, humbly thanking the chamber for the award.

Mr. Curtis said Rita Ward, recipient of the second President's Award, was described aptly by her nominator.

"Rita is a bright and positive gem who's devoted her entire life to helping others," Mr. Curtis quoted.

He spoke of her leadership qualities, demonstrated clearly through her 16 years serving on the Milton District Hospital Auxiliary — of which she's currently president.

Ms Ward is a member of the Halton Hills Health Care board of directors, and has volunteered in numerous capacities at Grace Anglican Church. She's also worked with the Red Cross.

"It's such a humbling experience to have received this, because there are so many so deserving," Ms Ward said upon accepting her plaque.

Mr. Curtis alluded to the personal trials Shamim Bhimji — owner of the Ramada Inn and Conference Centre and named Business Person of the Year — has faced in her lifetime, and spoke of her perseverance to overcome.

A refugee from Uganda, Mr. Curtis said Ms Bhimji is "a self-made woman" known for her kindness and compassion.

Ms Bhimji provided the most emotional acceptance, speaking on the verge of tears.

"Milton is not only my place of business, I consider it home. I've been treated well by the community and everyone," she said.

Teresa Fay, whose family is one of the owners of Granite Ridge Golf Club, accepted the award for Business of the Year (26 employees or more) and spoke of the club's continuing journey. In 1996 it opened with 18 holes. In 2001, it added 18 more. She told the crowd to watch for more changes in the next two to three years.

"For some of us our homes may be in Mississauga, but our hearts really do belong to Milton," she said.

Stephen Baker, owner of the Halton Compass, accepted the award for Business of the Year (25 employees or less) and spoke of the strength of its employees.

"I've only owned the Compass for the past year, but the team I inherited is great," he said. "It's a family and we have great fun. Yeah, we've done nice things for the community, but we've done it because we get out more than we give."

All nominees for the business awards were formally presented with certificates of recognition including the Milton Springers Gymnastics Club and Parkway Auto Trade in the category of Business of the Year (25 employees or less), Milton District Hospital for Business of the Year (26 employees or more), and, for Business Person of the Year, Donna Danielli of The Vacuum Shop and Angelo De Medicis of Milton Home Hardware Building Centre.

Past chamber president Douglas Francis presented Howard Mott — a lawyer with Hutchinson Thompson Henderson and Mott — with the award for Chamber Volunteer Member of the Year.

"He's been an invaluable source to the chamber pertaining to all issues of development," Mr. Francis said, adding Mr. Mott has been a chamber volunteer since 1993 and has been particularly active with the chamber's government relations committee.
