

Forever Young Lifestyle Show slated for next weekend in T.O.

It's quality — not just quantity — that counts when it comes to the lives of Canadians 50 and older these days.

For the 17th year, the Forever Young Lifestyle Show is being presented to help people in their golden years discover ways to enrich their lives.

The show, which is being presented by the Toronto Star, will be held next Friday and April 30 at the International Centre, in hall two, at 6900 Airport Rd. in Mississauga.

Visitors can drop in anytime from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. Admission is just $2.

The show will offer information on healthy alternatives, how to make the best of savings, close-to-home and exotic travel destinations, the safe use of prescriptions and more.

As well, show-goers will find out more about the latest products and services available in the areas of housing, health care, finance, insurance, travel and RV living.

Entertaining and informative seminars will be held throughout the weekend.

"We offer visitors a really good mix — seminars with compelling speakers, and quality products which they can purchase at the show," said Lyn Underwood, show manager.

"It's ideal for those who are looking for alternatives — ways to improve their quality of life and new ways to have fun."

A popular feature is 'The Retirement Community Forum,' which provides information on the vast array of retirement housing options from active adult communities to assisted living facilities.

Musical entertainment will be provided by the All Star Big Band, presenting a musical tribute to the Year of the Veteran.

There'll also be a talent show featuring 50-plus musicians, comedians and other entertainers.

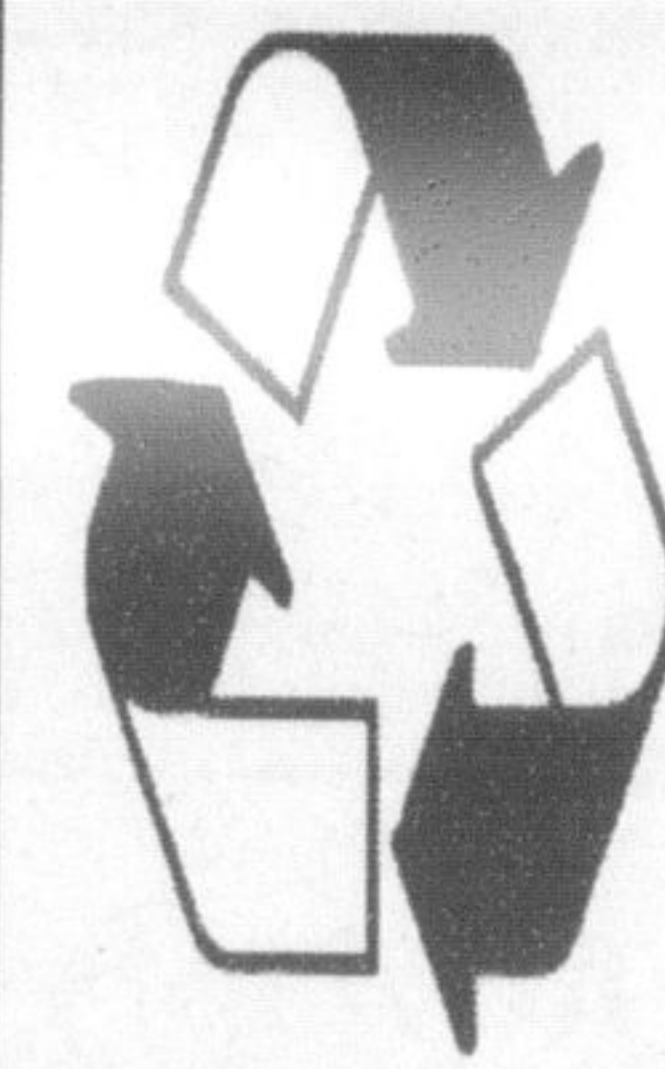

The International Centre features free parking and is wheelchair accessible.

For more information, call (905) 815-0017 or 1-800-265-3673. For seminar details, visit www.premierconsumershow.com.
