Dig Into Fall

More and more each year the trends lean toward fall planting. There is great value on plant material in the fall season. Garden centres are keeping the selection alive and fresh well into the first few snowfalls and the survival rate with fall planted material does not differ from the traditional spring planting season.

Don't be afraid, there is still plenty of time to plant. Head out to the garden centre this weekend, pick up your favourite nursery stock and perennials and bring them home. Plant like you would in the spring. Use a good soil, maybe add some triple mix and don't forget Miracle Gro Quickstart transplant fertilizer. Water everything in well and don't forget to keep them moist throughout the fall and winter to establish a strong root system. Just remember have fun and get planting.

Dig into fall.
