Make your lawn and garden cleaner and greener

(NC)—It's a little known fact that one old gas powered lawn mower produces 48 kilograms of greenhouse gasses in one season and as much air pollution as a car driven 550 kilometres. Luckily, owners of "old blue smokers" have a chance to retire them for good, in exchange for a cleaner alternative.

This April, the Clean Air Foundation in partnership with The Home Depot Canada returns with its Mow Down Pollution program to assist Canadians in reducing their greenhouse gas emissions through the government's One-Tonne Challenge.

Between Thursday, April 20 and Sunday, April 30, 2006, Canadians may turn in their old gas mowers and trimmers to any The Home Depot to receive an instant rebate of $10 to $100 off the purchase of cleaner alternatives such as a push reel, electric, cordless rechargeable or low emission gas mowers and trimmers.

Also this year, the Clean Air Foundation and The Home Depot are including price reductions on GardenSmart products, encouraging homeowners to Garden Smart with discounts on composters, natural fertilizers, sprinkler timers and solar lighting.

For more information on Mow Down Pollution, please visit The Home Depot store in your area or www.cleanairfoundation.org.
