Clean-up crew

At left, Erik Kowal of the Hornby Ratepayers' Association stands in disgust among everything from newspapers and tires to building materials that were illegally dumped on the hillside adjoining Sixth Line and Hornby Park. He was among those taking part in Saturday's sixth annual Clean Up Hornby Day. Below, Brenda Renwick and her son Kaleb make their way along the ditch of Steeles Avenue, collecting trash as they go.

Meeting on proposed quarry Sun.

A local environmental group is organizing a public session to discuss its objections to a new quarry in north Halton.

Protecting Escarpment Rural Land (PERL), a Burlington-based citizen advocacy group, is opposed to the opening of a quarry on the Niagara Escarpment.

It will hold an information session Sunday about Nelson Aggregate's proposed quarry on Mount Nemo. PERL says the quarry would cause "devastating impacts to the escarpment and surrounding community, such as threatening wetlands, water supply, natural habitats and endangered species."

The drop-in event will cover topics like the impacts of what's being proposed, endangered species and habitats potentially at risk, as well as provide a petition to stop approval of the quarry and the pick-up of a PERL lawn sign.

The session will run from 1 to 4 p.m. at Conservation Halton, 2596 Britannia Rd. W. For more information on the meeting, contact PERL at (905) 330-1173 or www.perlofburlington.org.
