TERRA Trends GREENHOUSES

Walk All Over Me

Traffic friendly perennials are a huge part of the landscape these days. We have available today more and more hardy plants that will tolerate foot traffic and what a great addition to any yard they have become.

Use ground covers you can walk on to add texture other than traditional grasses to a special part of the yard. Why not try filling spaces between stones in walkways, patios or garden retreats with rich texture and colour? Maybe build yourself a living checkerboard with these tread friendly plants and some paving stones. Let your imagination loose and remember these are not delicate plants we are talking about.

Look for tough, easy to grow plants such as Thymes, Mosses, Speedwells and Clovers; kick off your shoes and feel the texture between your toes and feel free to walk all over them.
