comment, but he said he's not interested in discussing the case with the media and that his lawyer is handling it.

Mattamy's plans include a mix of single and semi-detached homes and townhouses. While 2,216 homes have been proposed for the property, water and wastewater capacity has only been secured for 566 units at this time through an agreement with the Region.

The ultimate plan for the 340-acre piece of land also includes designated areas for residential office and commercial development.

Christian school set to open in Sept. By Melanie Hennessey

After several years of planning, the Milton Christian School is ready to open its doors.

The multi-denominational facility will welcome students in September to its initial site at Southside Community Church on Derry Road.

The new facility is headed up by the Christian Education Milton Association (MCEA) and will start off with classes for junior kindergarten to grade 4 students, and possibly a grade 5 class depending on the interest expressed by local residents. Classes will be added over the next four years to bring the curriculum up to grade 8.

"We are extremely excited to be moving forward with the primary objective of our association — to establish and operate an independent, multidenominational Christian elementary school in Milton," said board chair Jim Hughes.

"The opportunity to lease space from Southside Community Church is a great blessing to us and we appreciate their heart for the Milton community and Christian education. It is truly reflective of the support that is being expressed to us through the various Christian churches in Milton."

School principal Jennifer Feenstra-DeVries said enrollment just recently began, and while she's not sure exactly how many children they'll be expecting next month, she said there's been a lot of interest in the community.

In addition to using the gymnasium at the church for students' physical activities, Feenstra-DeVries pointed out that the school is conveniently located near other athletic facilities, like the Milton Sports Centre.

"We're excited that we're so close to great sports locations," she said.

So, who will this new school appeal

"Families who want their children to have an education with strong values," Feenstra-DeVries said, noting the school will also offer strong academics. "It gives parents in Milton another option."
