

Nomination meeting to be held in Campbellville next month

Champion at press time that he isn't a candidate at this point, but it's something he's not ruling out.

"I've recently been approached by groups of people about contesting Garth," he confirmed.

He added that the individuals he talked to are long-time Conservative supporters and "some are people of faith."

"(Their concern) gets back to party loyalty, and I have to agree that I'd like to see a nominee who's more loyal to the party and its leader," Keene said.

He said he does support reopening the same-sex marriage issue — something Prime Minister Stephen Harper said he would do prior to being elected.

"It's important for a party to follow through," he said, but pointed out that he's not a "single-issue guy."

Keene confirmed that he was the person who booked the hall to hold the Tuesday night meeting, which he said was held to discuss the reopening of the same-sex marriage debate, why Turner decided not to support it and what could be done to bring the issue to the floor.

When Turner and some of his supporters turned out for the meeting, it was cut short and moved to Keene's house.

Also in attendance at the session was Rondo Thomas, vice-president and dean of Bible studies at Canada Christian College — something Turner highlighted on his daily Web blog.

Thomas told The Champion he was simply there to answer any questions Keene may have had since he ran previously as a Conservative candidate. "(To see me there) must've spooked Garth," he said, adding, "He must be running scared. It sounds to me like Garth is in panic city."

At this point Thomas said he couldn't say if he was supporting Keene as a candidate since he's still undecided on whether to run.

A nomination meeting to select the Halton Conservative candidate for the next federal election will be held September 11 at the Lion's Hall in Campbellville at 7:30 p.m.

Divorce: How to Avoid Costly Housing Mistakes When Assets Are Divided

MILTON - Divorce is rarely easy and often means a lot of difficult decisions. One of the most important decisions is what to do about the house.

In the midst of the heavy emotional and financial turmoil, what you need most is some non-emotional, straightforward, specific information and answers. Once you know how a divorce affects your home, your mortgage and taxes, critical decisions are easier. Neutral, third party information can help you make logical, rather than emotional, decisions.

Probably the first decision is whether you want to continue living in the house. Will the familiar surroundings bring you comfort and emotional security, or unpleasant memories? Do you want to minimize change by staying where you are, or sell your home and move to a new place that offers a new start?

Only you can answer those questions, but there will almost certainly be some financial repercussions to your decision process. What can you afford? Can you manage the old house on your new budget? Is refinancing possible? Or is it better to sell and buy?

To help you know what questions you should ask and how to arrive at the right answer for your specific situation, a FREE special report has been prepared by industry experts entitled "Divorce: What You Need to Know About Your House, Your Mortgage and Taxes"
