

Couple part of Team in Training

Although neither Robert nor Neelands has had a friend or family member with blood cancer, Robert sees the devastation of the disease quite often at Credit Valley Hospital in Mississauga where she works as a respiratory therapist.

She explained the disease isn't understood as well as, say, breast cancer, and she sees a real need for more education.

Is she nervous? Absolutely, Robert said.

"But I really think we can do this. There's a lot of support in Milton."

To make a donation, visit Robert's fundraising page at www.active.com/donate/tnttor/tnt-tormrobert or Neelands's page at www.active.com/donate/tnttor/tnt-torsneelan1.

Volunteers needed to man distress line

Do your friends and family tell you you're a good listener?

If the answer's yes, you might want to consider becoming a distress line volunteer with the Oakville Distress Centre. Volunteers should be non-judgmental and be able to befriend callers with compassion and empathy.

Training will be provided — the next session starts at the end of September — and will prepare volunteers to handle different types of calls.

Volunteers must be over 18 years old and be able to commit to 12 hours a month. For more information, call (905) 849-4559 or visit www.distresscentreoakville.com.

We believe... in helping. Anyone. Anywhere.
