Animals Up for Adoption: Dogs, Cats, Bunnies Hamsters

Humane societies play a huge role in our society. To put it crudely, humane societies are our garbage collectors. They pick up our stray and abused animals and take in any animal that is no longer wanted. Having a no kill policy leads to the overcrowding at the shelters due to the fact that there are more animals coming in than being adopted. As an example, Upper Credit has recently taken in over 60 kittens. Kitten milk replacement needed to be purchased, foster homes needed to be found and secure barns are needed to house the feral cats now that they are no longer nursing their young. Oakville Humane Society (which handles Milton's animal control) has two cat rooms filled to capacity. They have been housing cats in the hallway, office areas and anywhere there is an open space for some time now. These animals need your help. On October 1st, come to St. Paul's United Church and show your support!

All of this takes time, money and lots of love. Please come out and support our event on October 1st where, for the first time, Oakville Humane Society and Upper Credit Humane Society will bring some of their pets for adoption to Milton. Please come out and support this great cause. It will be a great family event!
