North Halton Mental Health Clinic honours regional chair

Outgoing Regional Chairman Joyce Savoline's efforts in support of the North Halton Mental Health Clinic were recognized this week.

The clinic's community advisory committee hosted an evening in Savoline's honour Monday, when a room in the downtown Milton facility was renamed the Joyce Savoline Meeting Room.

"Joyce was a very strong proponent, along with regional council, in securing funding for the clinic," said committee chair Jackie Gordon. "She was a voice in the community when there wasn't a lot of advocacy for people suffering from mental illness."

She noted the Region has supported the clinic financially and through advocacy efforts, with Savoline in particular taking on a key role in urging the Province to provide more funding.

In fact, Gordon said the Ontario government has more than doubled the local clinic's funding over the past two years.
