Musician confident about his CD

• from KHALEL on page B1
 some of their tracks.
 To top it all off, he and his wife, Rosie, had a daughter 11 months ago they named Legacy.
 Now, as he spends time in the recording studio, Khalel — which just happens to be Superman's Kryptonian name — said he's looking forward to the next step in his musical career. "I really believe in what I'm doing, and a lot of other people do, too."
 He said he learned a lot — musically and business-wise — from his first foray into the musical limelight. Now he's ready to "get out there and do as much as I possibly can."

 The upcoming CD will incorporate Khalel's knack for writing what he knows — penning songs from experiences he and his friends have gone through.
 He's confident the new CD will get airplay. "Radio stations like my music — they'll play it," he said simply.
 He added networking over the past two years will prove helpful when he releases his CD. "It's who you know in the industry."

 And his fans still remember him, which will help, he said.
 Although his core audience probably ranges from 16 to 23, Khalel is quick to point out he has people in their thirties and forties who enjoy his songs.
 "My parents love my music," he said.
