Peewees on HNIC tomorrow

It'll be an especially memorable Remembrance Day for a group of local rep players — who'll no doubt be tuned into Hockey Night in Canada tomorrow evening.

The second Milton club this year to be part of Hockey Night in Canada's Hometown Hockey feature, the peewee AA Winterhawks will be seen on CBC at about 6:30 p.m. — at the top of the half-hour of pre-coverage for the Maple Leafs' home-ice tilt with the Montreal Canadiens.

The team was selected because it's sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion's Milton branch, fitting in with the evening's Remembrance Day theme.

A CBC film crew taped the brief segment at Memorial Arena Wednesday night, just after the Winterhawks' 4-4 comeback tie against the Brampton Battalion.

"They don't know about it yet. When they realize they're going to be on Hockey Night in Canada there's going to be a lot of excitement in that dressing room," said AA peewees head coach Mike Zuccato Wednesday morning.

Meanwhile, two other local hockey teams enjoyed a brush with notoriety this past week.

Both the bantam house-league #2 Wild squad and minor bantam AA Winterhawks saw Walter Gretzky swing by their Tuesday practices for quick talks on his way to that evening's IceHawks game.

Reding juniors host Nelson today

Aiding in those efforts was Sergio Grados, who picked off the Tigers' quarterback early in the third quarter to help thwart a potential turnaround.

Offensively, the Royals received another effective one-two punch from Sanjay Moodie and Tyrell Tavares-Howard, who each reached the end-zone in the second quarter.

Moodie erased Blakelock's early lead with an eight-year touchdown scamper following O'Connor's bomb to Santibanez, while Tavares-Howard made his way to the house with an incredible 37-yard carry that tested his lateral mobility as much as his speed.

While enjoying home-field advantage again today for the semifinals, the Royals will be clear-cut underdogs when they begin battle with the Nelson Lords at 2 p.m.

Part of the significantly stronger Volpe Division, the Lords won four of their five regular season games, including a 14-0 decision over the Assumption Crusaders, who pummeled Reding 38-9 in week-two action. Nelson steamrolled into the semis with a 41-0 dismantling of the Oakville-Trafalgar Devils.

The Reding-Nelson winner will take on either Notre Dame or Assumption in Thursday's Halton championship at Ivor Wynne Stadium.

Meanwhile in Division 2 junior semifinal play, the Milton District Mustangs ran into a brick wall in Oakville Tuesday afternoon — losing to the heavily-favoured Abbey Park Eagles 39-0.

"They were bigger, stronger and faster than us. We couldn't do anything against them," remarked head coach Richard Grant, whose team went 4-1 in the regular season and reached the semifinals with a 7-6 squeaker over the Robert Bateman Wild.
