

Convenient new features help traditional phone book evolve

"There's about to be a complete shift in the Ontario directory market," says Canadian Champion publisher Neil Oliver, "and we're pretty excited to be part of it."

In 2007, Torstar is distributing 40 Gold Book directories to more than 2.4 million households and businesses across Southern Ontario — including 48,000 copies in the Milton/Georgetown area under The Canadian Champion and Independent & Free Press brands.

Part of what makes Gold Book unique is that every Gold Book advertiser is provided with a Web site on goldbook.ca that's updated monthly through Gold Book's exclusive 'weblines' program. Icons and Web addresses for each advertiser are then published in the Gold Book so that consumers can easily tell what information is available — and access it quickly.

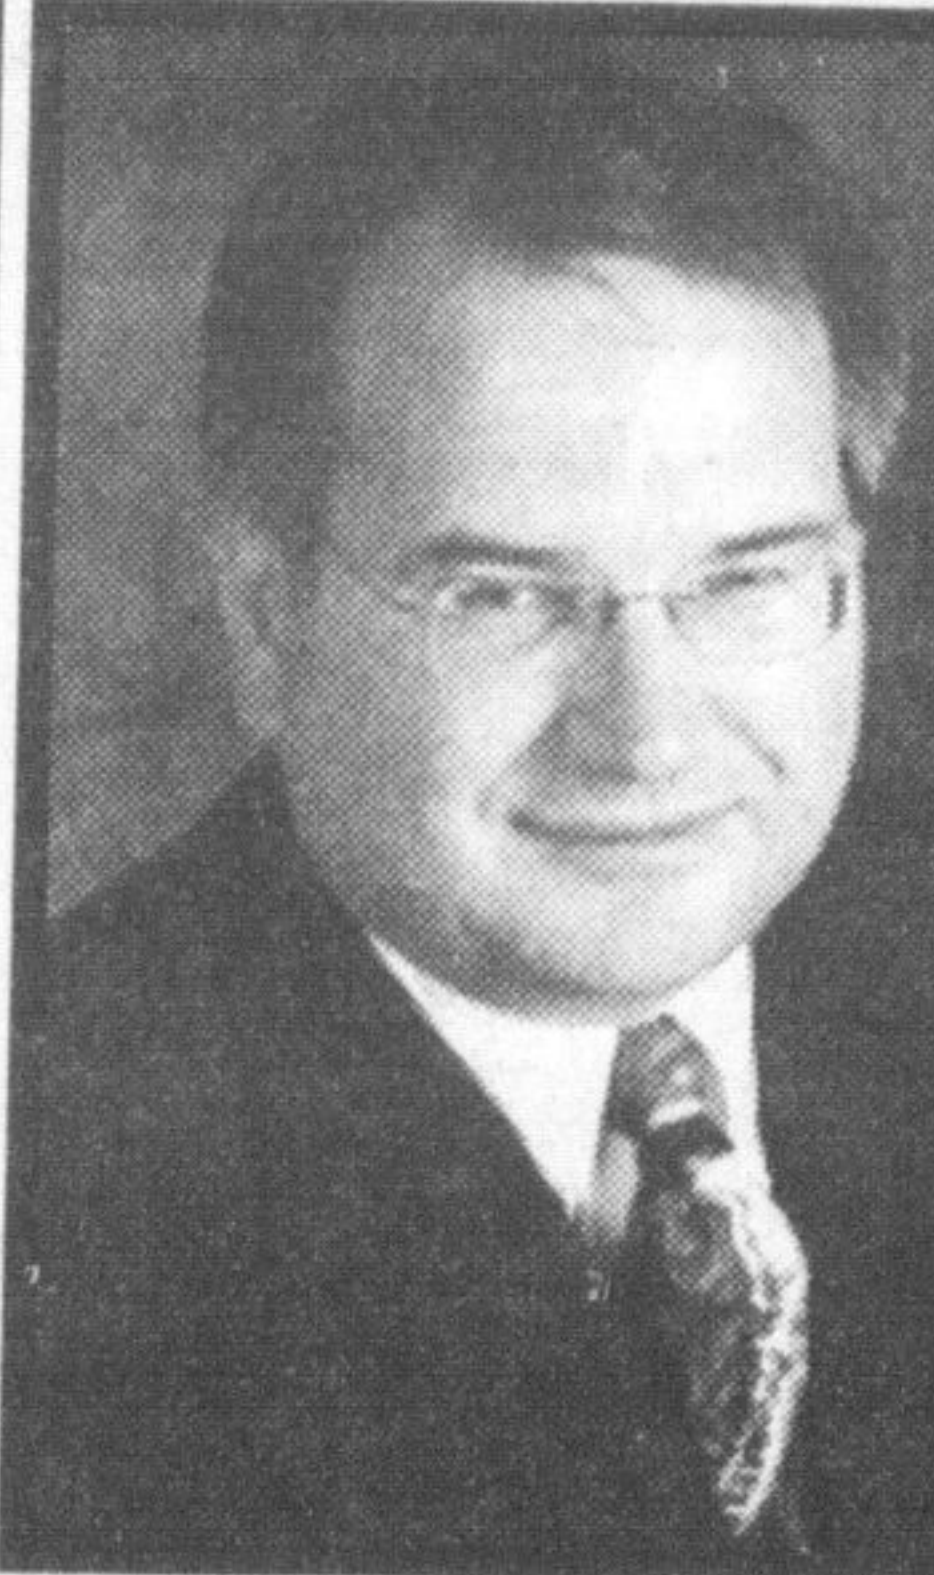

"This year, we plan to host more than 10,000 local business Web sites on goldbook.ca," says

Oliver, "which means we'll have more sales and special events postings, more video commercials, and more business information than any other on-line or print directory in the market."

In addition, goldbook.ca will be linked with other Torstar Digital Properties such as haltonsearch.com and independentfreepress.com, so it will receive the benefit of being part of a family of websites that currently receives over 2 million unique visitors a month.

"Our motto to potential advertisers is simple," states Oliver. "Directories have changed. So should your directory advertising."

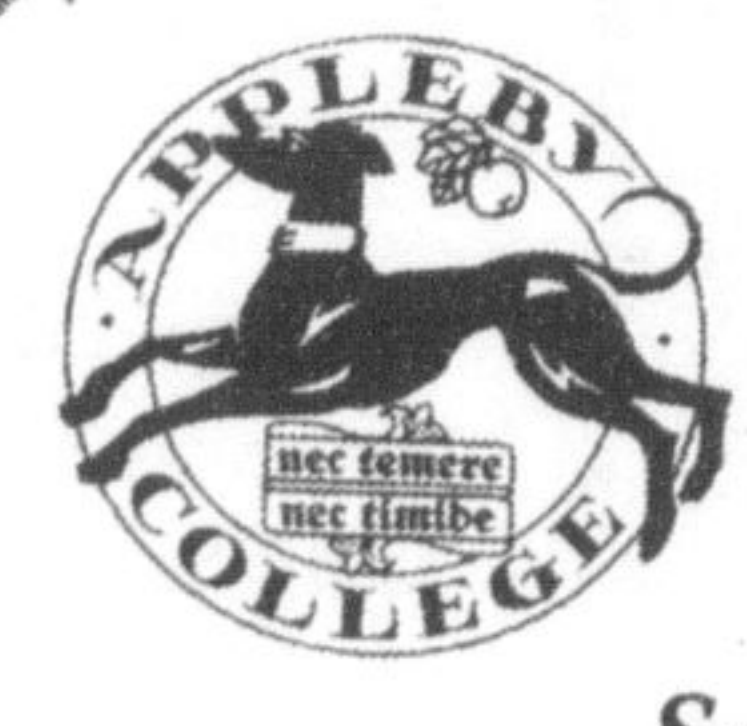

With advertising sales now underway, The Canadian Champion/Independent & Free Press Gold Book will be distributed in June 2007. Further information is available by calling 310-GOLD.
