Happy Holidays and best wishes on your exams? Oh no. Here it comes, the time we have all been dreading. Those glorious 2 weeks off were gone in flash, and suddenly we were wishing we had done more homework. And the world is on our shoulders, two weeks to go until the big finale. So as we are all learning the meaning of time management, our colleague is taking another route, time machine? Nice try buddy. Either way we are all starting to feel the pressures accumulating with summatives, essays, and exams rearing their ugly heads. There were even Grad photos to stress over this week for the seniors. That meant...brushing our hair? Not...wearing pajamas? Let it be over soon. However, even through all of the quick comments and frowning faces we really team up together as a school. In times of exams...we find ourselves banding together to make study groups and picking straws to see who has to go get the coffee and sugar booster. We look forward to regaining the colour in our faces, removing those bags from under our eyes, and most especially sleeping.

Once everything is over, the only and yes the only thing to bring us from our deep slumber is the upcoming ski season. WE SAW SNOW!!! And can only hope for the best (no more rain.) We look forward to watching our friends learn how to ride a snowboard. We can't wait to see those legs flailing in the air with their faces in the snow. No hard feelings though, it's just fun.

Next up, a bit of soliciting to our beloved Milton businesses. Our school is currently hosting a magazine drive in order to get our hands on some reading material for our students during D.E.A.R. (drop everything and read) sessions. If anyone has stacks of magazines or paperback material that is currently going unused, it would be much appreciated if they could be donated to our school. Any material will be accepted at the main office in E.C. Drury. Much thanks in advance!

Unfortunately, with everything going on, there is not much to write about. So we came up with a theory. This is our Seinfeld episode. An article about nothing. There is TONS going on, just nothing more we can write about. As if so much is going on that nothing else can. Except for sports, they always manage to escape the classrooms and find some competition. The Junior Girls Volleyball team went to a tournament at Bishop Reding. They won 5 games and only lost 1, with a total of 8 teams from the Halton area there. A wonderful way to come back from the holidays, Ladies.

So I suppose everything isn't quite as bad as we make it out to be, but it isn't pretty. We have a lot of work, a lot of studying and a lot of coffee ahead of us in the next couple of weeks. Time to get busy and work our way down that depressing list of things to do. But before we go, we would just like to say thanks to our sit-in Danielle Proulx this week! Good luck Spartans!

BISHOP REDING HIGH SCHOOL

Welcome back Bishop Reding! As a new year begins so do many other things, such as a new set of exams, new sports tournaments and the applications to new schools. Bishop Reding students are especially busy around this time of the year, and this Inside Source is about to fill you in on why.

With just over a week left of school everyone is beginning to get that frantic look on their faces as only a student about to write exams can. Exams begin on the 25th of January and end on Wednesday the 31st. So this Inside Source's advice to nervous students is to start the studying now. It will calm your nerves and boost your marks.

On the lighter side of things, there have been many stress-relieving activities as well. This past week the junior girls' volleyball team hosted a tournament here at BR. They were cheered on by many fans in the stands and did not disappoint. They played excellently and with great enthusiasm. Also this past Friday and Saturday the senior girls' volleyball team and the senior boys' basketball team competed in tournaments of their own. The girls traveled to Kingston to compete in an Ontario-wide tournament, where they made BR proud; their hustle was incredible. The boys had a home tournament and as always, were simply amazing. Teams not to be forgotten include the BR swim team, who had a meet last Thursday in Georgetown, and the hockey team, who continue to make our school proud to have brought back the sport.

Lastly, the deadline for applying to University was last Wednesday, while the deadline for applying to college is next week. This is an exciting time for our grads this year, because now they are just waiting for those acceptance letters, and they can start the next chapter of their academic career.

So welcome back everyone and good luck on the stresses ahead.
