AE2 atoms eye semifinal berth

Could sweep Belle River tonight at MSC

On the heels of a largely dominating campaign to reach the OMHA quarterfinals, Milton's AE2 atoms have thrown some drama into their playoff mix.

Kicking off their best-of-five series in Belle River last weekend, the Winterhawks engineered identical 3-2 wins — both by way of comeback — to put an immediate stranglehold on the Rink Rats.

Jessie MacDonald pulled double duty in the series opener Saturday evening — serving as both star and hero. He potted the game winner with three-and-half minutes left to cap a three-point night, which included the initial tally and an assist on Broc Tracey's rebound equalizer late in the second.

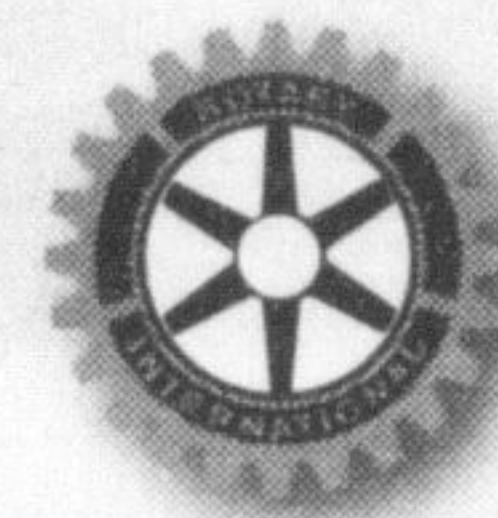

Chris Chuchmach shared the spotlight with a superb performance between the pipes, while defenceman Evan Rundle contributed two helpers.

The Winterhawks would keep the excitement going the following afternoon, scoring twice in the last 5:07 of play to eclipse Belle River and put themselves on the threshold of the semifinals.

Cole Miobertolo and Brenden Calvert-Day netted the tying and winning goals respectively a mere 13 seconds apart to spoil victory hopes for the Rink Rats — who'd scored back-to-back goals of their own to start the third. Milton's equalizer was the first of the season for defenceman Miobertolo, while captain Colin Moffat was the initial marksman.

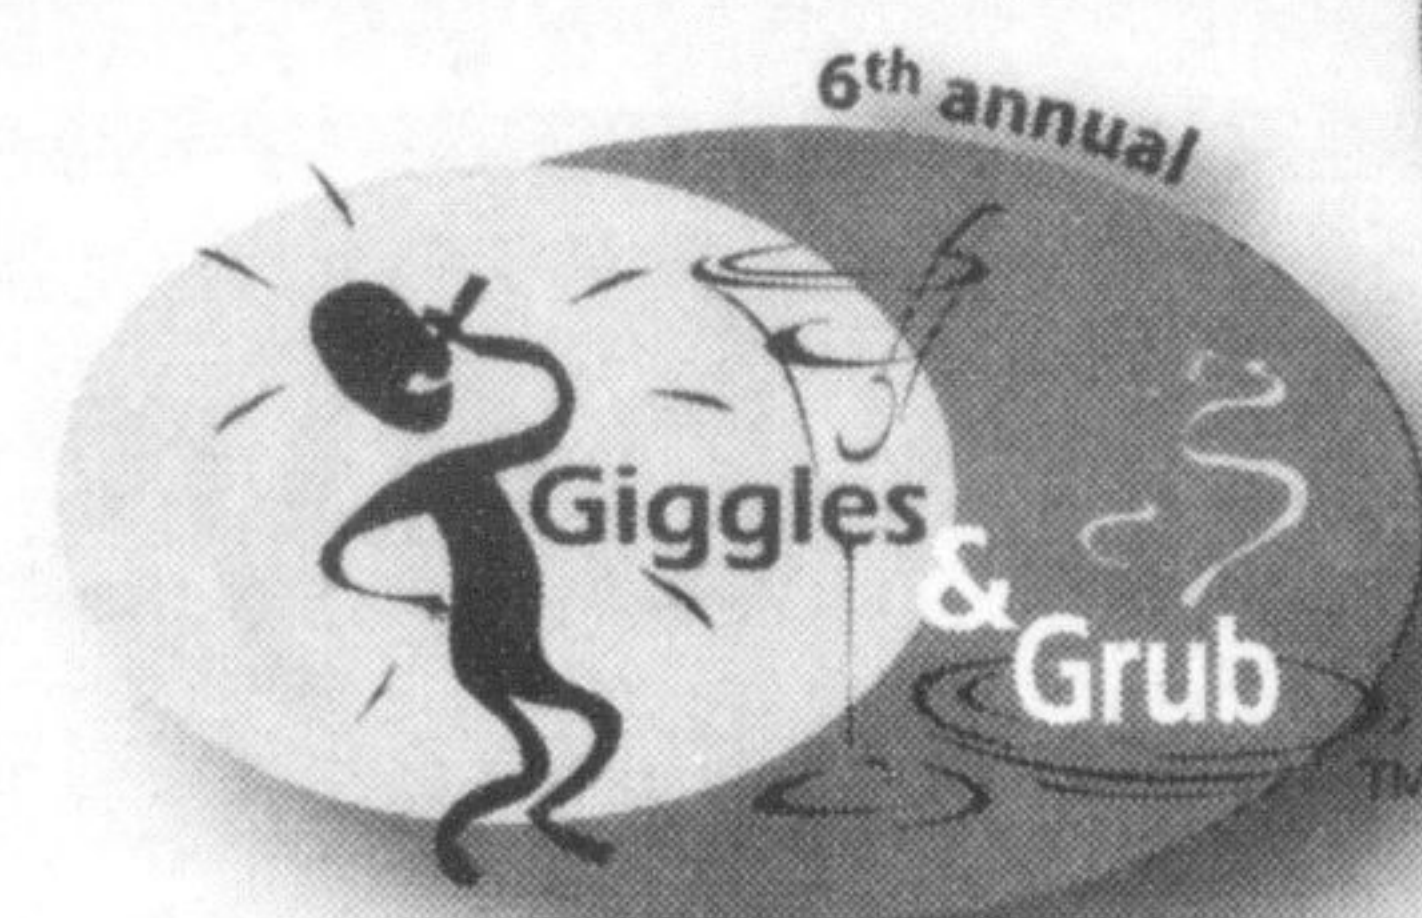

Michael Harwood stood tall in net in game two.

The AE2 atoms can sweep the series tonight at Milton Sports Centre. Game time is 7 p.m. If necessary, the teams will square off again at MSC tomorrow, starting at 4:30 p.m.
