Carr considered for GTTA board

Regional Chairman Gary Carr may soon become a member of the Greater Toronto Transportation Authority's board of directors.

The local politician has been nominated by the provincial government for appointment to the board, as recommended by regional council.

The appointment is pending review by the standing committee on government agencies. Eight members of other regional and municipal councils in the GTA were recommended by their peers and approved for terms of up to three years.

"It is a clear indication of the commitment of the participating municipalities that they have chosen to nominate the heads of their councils to GTTA," said Rob MacIsaac, former Burlington mayor and now chair of the GTTA.

The GTTA's mandate is to ensure that all levels of government work together to develop a long-range transportation plan in consultation with a broad range of stakeholders, including students, seniors, people with disabilities, businesses and industry.

With nine transit systems handling over 518 million annual passenger trips and more than two million vehicles on GTA and Hamilton roads, the GTTA will play a vital role in developing a plan to tackle congestion and co-ordinate and improve transit systems across the region.

The agency is responsible for regional transit and transportation planning, purchasing transit vehicles on behalf of municipalities, the future management of GO Transit and ultimately the operation of the GTA fare card system for GTA and Hamilton.

Council approves purchase of 4 buses

The Town's plans to purchase four buses for its transit system are rolling ahead.

Town council approved buying the vehicles from Pearson Bus Sales Ltd. at its Monday night session for $1.6 million. The low-floor feature of the buses will make them easily accessible for those with wheelchairs, scooters, walkers, shopping buggies and baby strollers.

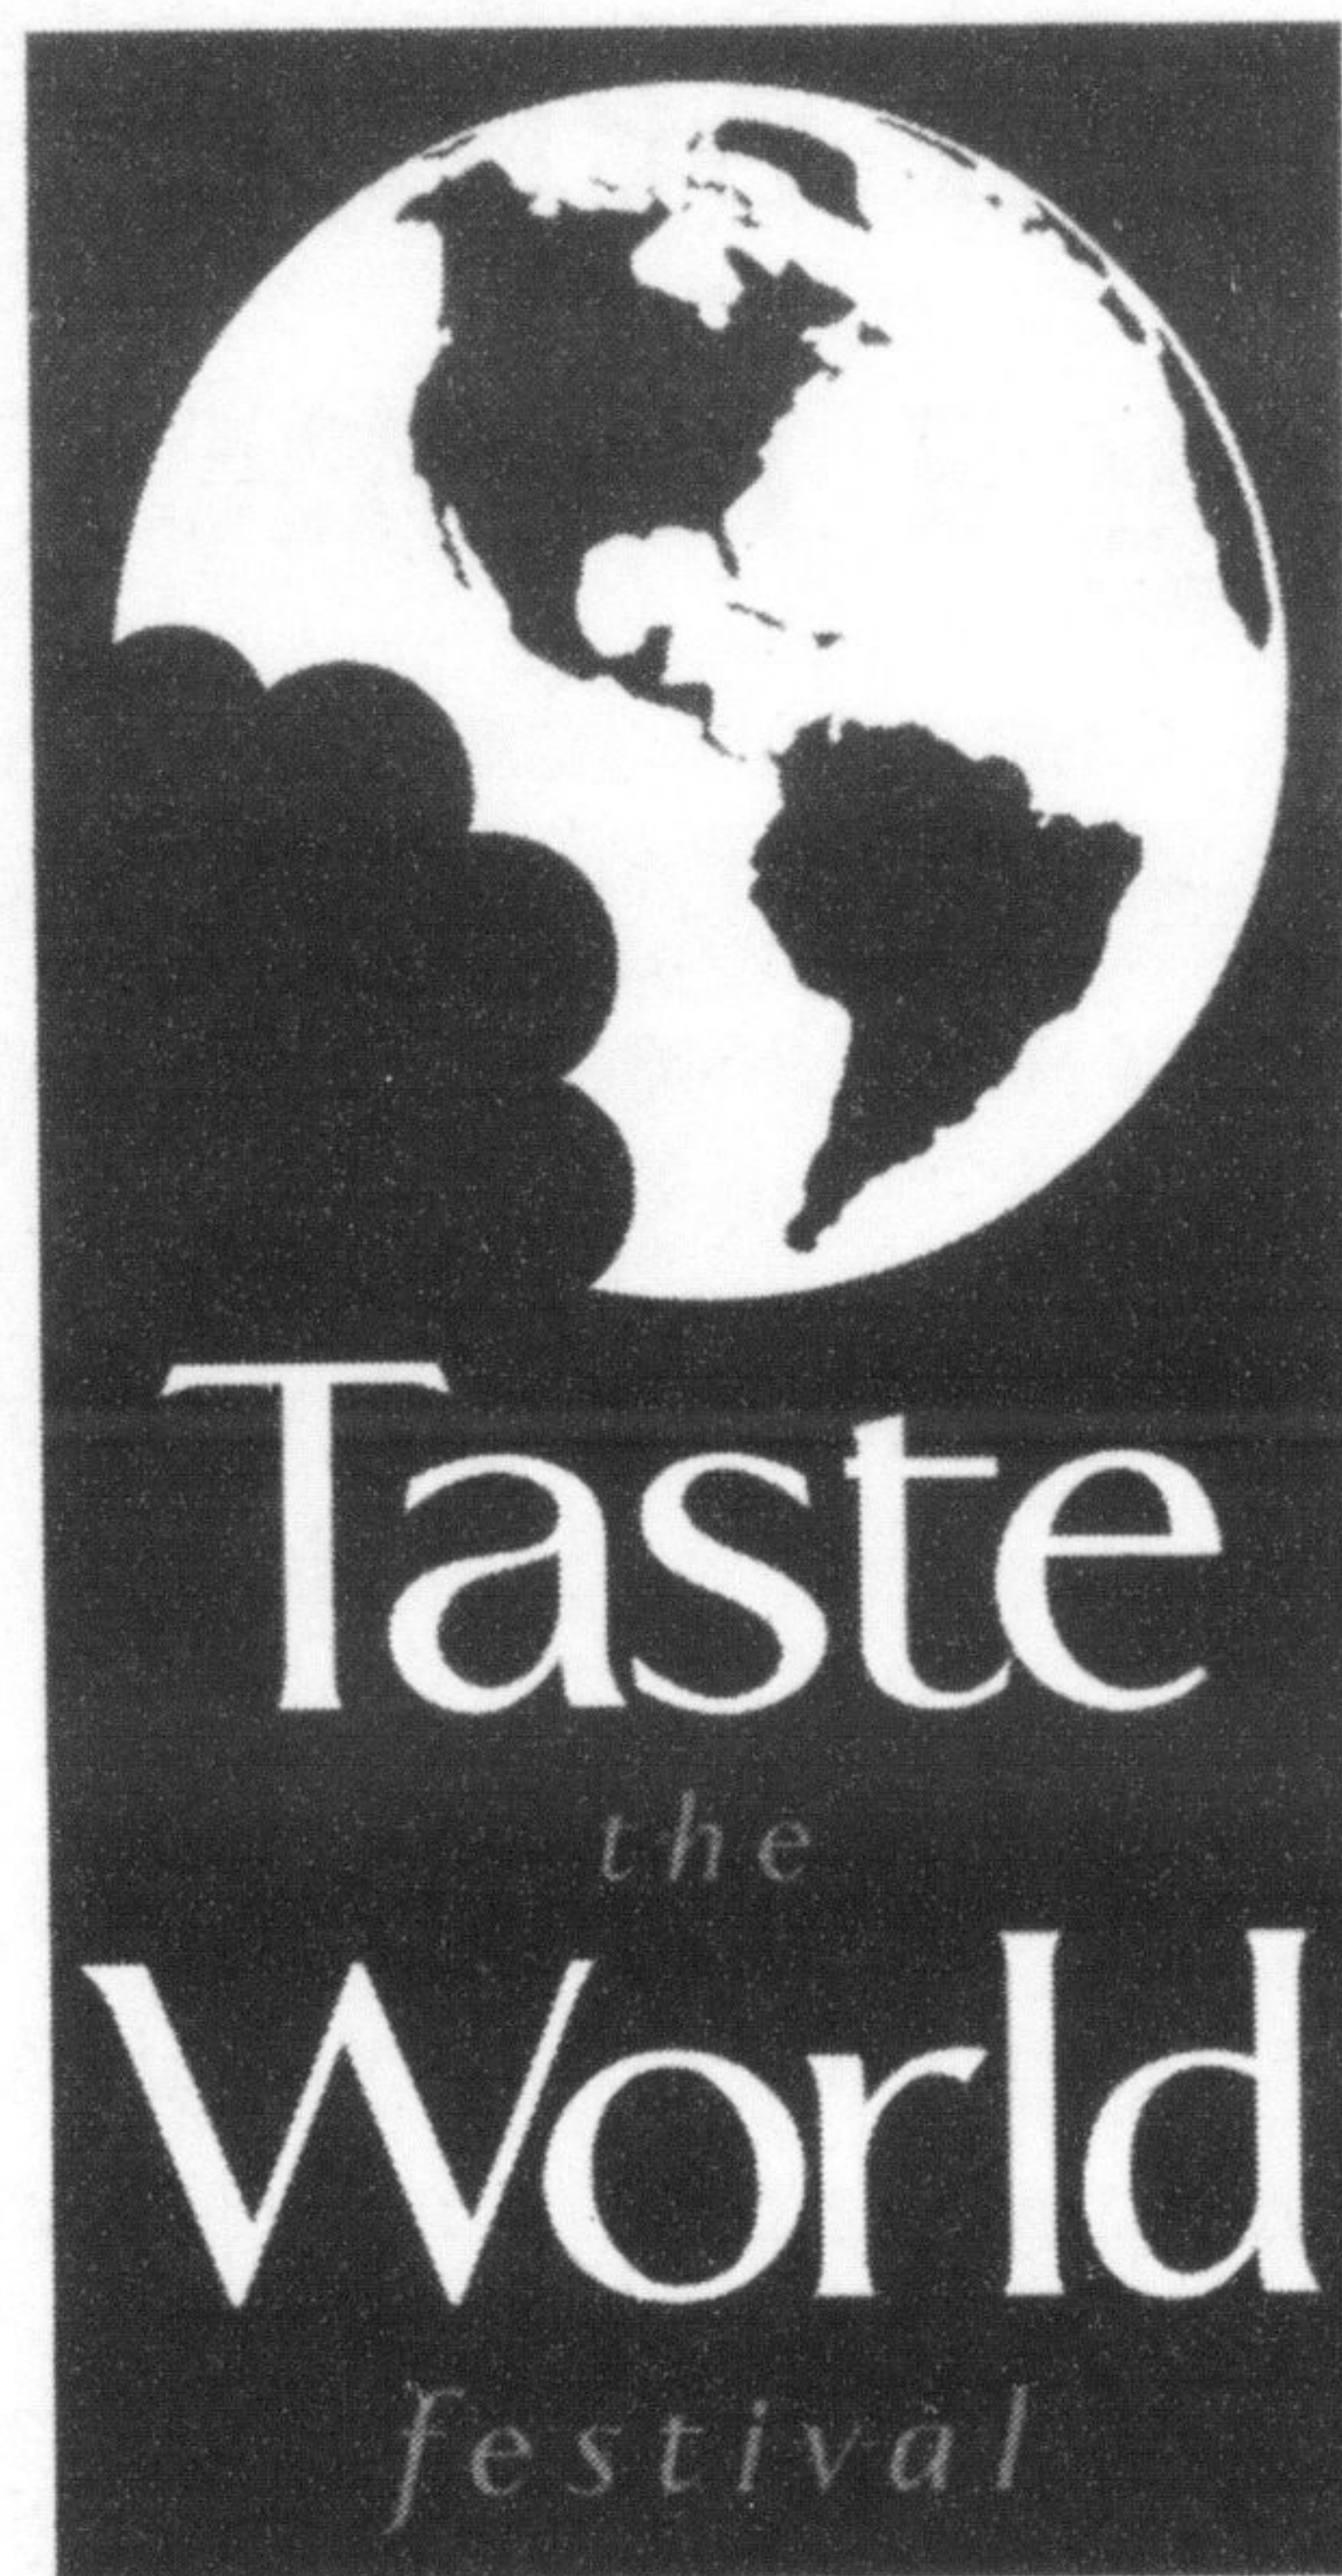

Currently, the Town contracts Oakville Transit buses to provide service for Milton.

Council approved around $1.5 million in the 2007 budget for the buses.

The variance between the budgeted amount and the actual cost will be funded from development charges and the transit and transportation reserve.
