We saw dinosaur bones, slept in a teepee, and learned the story of the steel snake.

The kids couldn't believe the bones were millions of years old. The dinosaur museum was as spectacular as the surrounding badlands. We went on to a place called Head-Smashed-In Buffalo Jump, and our guide told us about life on the plains before the "steel snake" - what his ancestors called the railway. We fell asleep in the teepee to the gentle crackling of the wood stove. Keep exploring at TravelAlberta.com
