Public input sought on rural high-speed access

With the Town soon seeking provincial funds to get high-speed Internet into the rural area, the Nassagaweya Broadband Committee is calling on the public for input into the grant application.

The group wants local residents and businesses to help envision an outreach and education program that will be required if the grant is approved. The program will aim to encourage the uptake of the high-speed technology and maximize its impact.

"We want the public and businesses to share their ideas for the scope of this outreach and education program and offer ideas on how education would best be offered so that it's relevant, convenient and actionable," said Grant Leclerc of the Nassagaweya Broadband Committee. "We need your input now."

Ideas can be e-mailed to toni@ritchiebridges.ca. Deadline for submissions is Monday.

The committee is also hoping to hear from any local technology gurus who use, sell or know about advanced connectivity applications for personal, professional, industrial, agricultural or other uses.

Those who fit this description can e-mail the aforementioned address if they want to help by either providing content suggestions or advice for the high-speed Internet campaign (should the Town receive funding), sponsoring education sessions or communications or by being a session educator or guest speaker.

Letters of community support for rural high-speed Internet access can also be submitted until Monday. They should include the resident's name, phone number and e-mail address, why they want high-speed access and what it will help them do that they can't do now.

It should be e-mailed to jan@jan-mowbray.ca, addressed to the Town of Milton and marked as 're: OMAFRA Rural Connections application'.

The Town will be submitting its application to the Province by the July 13 deadline.
