Well upgrade funding approved

Regional council has approved funds that will be used to ensure Milton's well-based water supply doesn't fall short this summer.

The decision, made at Wednesday's council session, means $150,000 has been allotted for measures that will maximize the amount of water available in the older parts of Milton this summer.

The issue comes about as a result of a capacity shortfall that's been discovered in the Kelso Well Treatment Facility — something the Region is attributing to errors and omissions in the design, completed by a consulting firm a few years ago.

The municipality has retained a lawyer to review what legal options are available to recover damages resulting from the design firm's inability to meet its contractual obligations.

The funds will be used to make modifications that will increase the facility's capacity by two million litres per day, operate a Walkers Line well as a backup supply and develop emergency operations and maintenance procedures in the event of an extended drought period.

Councillors greenlight Accessibility Plan

A plan that will improve access to the Region's programs and services for all residents has received a stamp of approval.

The document — entitled the Halton Region Accessibility Plan, 2007 — was endorsed by regional council at its meeting Wednesday.

It aims to identify and remove barriers that people with disabilities in the community face when accessing the Region's services.

A variety of projects and activities have been planned for the year, such as improving accessibility at the Halton Regional Centre and Halton Region Museum, continuing to make accessibility improvements to the Region's website and delivering diversity awareness training to Halton staff.

The plan is the fourth annual one that the Region has prepared, as required under the Ontarians with Disabilities Act.
