Young musician's future looks bright

Plenty ahead for Demetrious

For local singer/songwriter/guitarist Steven Demetrious, music isn't something he wants to do; it's something he has to do.

Chances are you've seen his name around town. For the past few years, the 20-year-old has been quietly edging his way into the music industry, and has played at town events including — most recently — the Downtown Street Party to celebrate Milton's 150th anniversary.

READY TO ROCK: Steven Demetrious is set to perform at Sunday's Music in the Park.

It seems things are finally coming together for Demetrious. His performances this summer include a concert at Mohawk Racetrack — a venue that's nothing to sneeze at. And in just a few months — if all goes well — he'll be a bonafide recording artist with the release of his first album.

"Things have really been moving fast," Demetrious said, explaining many opportunities have been coming his way
