Annual event calls for end to violence against women

The 17th edition of the annual Take Back the Night event in Oakville is being called 'Dare to Dream: Ending Violence Through the Arts'.

It'll take place Tuesday, Sept. 11 from 5 to 9 p.m. at T. A. Blakelock High School, 1160 Rebecca St., in Oakville.

Organizer of the event is the Sexual Assault and Violence Intervention Services of Halton (SAVIS) in partnership with the Halton District School Board, Halton Organization for Pride and Education (HOPE), Halton Regional Police Services, Halton Women's Place, Nina's Place and T. A. Blakelock High School.

This year's Take Back the Night event will encourage people to say no to violence against women.

The 17th annual Take Back the Night will include an anti-violence concert with:

- Belly dancer Joharah
- Sarah Melody, a singer and Canadian spokesperson for Youth For Human Rights

- Sonay Gabroo Punjab De of the South Asian Bhangra Troupe
- Sofia Baig, a Montreal spoken word artist

- The Sound of Reason, Montreal's internationally-acclaimed musical duo
- The Oakville Steel Pan Band
- The Burlington Footnotes.

Other activities will include an art exhibit, community bazaar, a women and children only anti-violence march, free snacks and face painting.

Take Back the Night (TBTN) began in Germany in 1973, as a response to a series of sexual assaults, rapes and murders.

TBTN events and marches are now held internationally in all parts of the world, and the message is the same: that women and children have a right to be free from violence in their lives.

Volunteers needed for visiting

Are you looking for a rewarding volunteer experience?

Links2Care, which provides programs for seniors and people with disabilities in Halton, is looking for dedicated volunteers for its friendly visiting program.

Volunteers are needed to provide companionship and conversation to a senior in the Milton area for an hour each week.

For more information about the program, call Jolaine at (905) 844-0252, ext. 28.
