Book donations sought by union for Salvation Army gift hampers

Giving children books is like giving them a world of adventures at their fingertips.

The members of CUPE Local 4366, the workers of the Milton Public Library, want to ensure every child wakes up Christmas morning with a book under the tree in addition to toys.

The library workers are once again collecting new children's books for the Salvation Army's Christmas hampers, and are asking for the public's help in donating books.

Donations can be dropped off at the Milton Public Library on Bruce Street. There's a collection box at the main level information desk.

Pantry donations helpful

While there's rarely a shortage of generosity this time of year when it comes to the local food bank, the Salvation Army's food bins have resulted in a shortcoming when it comes to collection.

Along with the obvious problem of boxed food items occasionally being crushed by their canned counterparts — thus rendering them useless — a single bin creates clutter with things like toiletries being mixed in with food.

Enter Brent and Brian Collier.

The Collier Woodworking partners have fashioned a solution for the Salvation Army's donation dilemma — in the form of a pantry with designated areas for specific items.

The upgrade will ensure better protection and handling of all donations.

The Colliers have built three pantries, free of charge, for the Salvation Army that will be situated at Wal-Mart, A&P and the new Loblaws Superstore.

Invest in your child

Invest in our future

When you show your children how to listen, you are not just telling them they are important, you are also investing in the future — theirs and ours. Children who can listen well when they start kindergarten are kids who are putting their best foot forward. And research shows that success at school leads to success and happiness throughout life.

For fresh ideas on making listening fun, call Our Kids-Milton at 905-876-1306

We can help you make a lasting investment in your child's future.
